

Wholesale Prices Decline

©The New York Times

Washington — The nation's once-severe inflation continued to abate in January in parallel with the steep decline in production and employment, new Labor Department figures indicated Friday.

The wholesale price index declined by 0.3% after adjustment for normal seasonal changes in some prices. This was the second consecutive monthly drop following a sustained period in 1973 and 1974 when this index rose on average by more than 1.5% a month.

There was a small increase last month of 0.5% in the closely watched index for industrial commodities, following a zero increase in December. But this rise was far less than the increases of more than 2% a month that typified the first eight months of last year.

All Except Final Sales

The wholesale price index — which has a slightly misleading name — covers all transactions in the economy except final sales to the consumer. The sharp abatement in inflation revealed by this index thus will not have an immediate effect on consumer prices, but the effect should be appearing as the months go on.

The decline in the over-all index last month came about because of the second consecutive monthly drop of 2.5% in the index covering farm products and processed foods and feeds.

This drop apparently influenced Agriculture Department specialists who cautiously predicted Friday that retail food prices in the first half of 1975 would continue to rise, but at a lower rate than was forecast two months ago. Food prices can continue to go up for consumers despite a drop at the farm and processing level because of many other factors, including rising costs of transportation and labor.

Current Prediction

The current prediction is for a rise of 2 to 3% in food prices in the first quarter of this year and a further rise of 3% in the second quarter. But the report said:

"If recent price declines for agricultural commodities persist and consumer demand slackens in response to deteriorating economic conditions, the rate of increase in retail food prices may moderate."

The dramatic reversal of the inflation situation — reflecting improvement in both the agricultural and industrial sectors of the economy — was best measured by taking the wholesale price index over three-month periods.

In the three months ended in January, the index rose at an annual rate of only 1.5%. By contrast, in the three months ending last September the same figure was 35.2%.

The slackening of inflation — which appears to be a new confirmation that the law of supply and demand is still very operative — has come as total demand in the economy has undergone a drastic decline.

Unemployment Jumps

This has shown up in a steep rise in unemployment, to 8.2% of the labor force, and a drop in industrial production last month alone of 3.6%, the largest for a month since 1937.

Despite the sharp decline in over-all business activity associated with the recession, some prices continue to go up. In January, about half of the small increase in the over-all index for industrial commodities was accounted for by a further rise in the fuel and power category and an increase in the broad sector of machinery and equipment.

But there were declines, too, in such areas as textile products, hides and leather, and lumber products.

The index for consumer finished goods, goods ready for shipment to retail stores, rose by only 0.1% last month. The index for fully processed foods declined by 0.9%, but there were small increases in many nonfood items.

The index for "crude materials" declined in January for the fourth consecutive month. This marks a reversal of the "commodity boom" that dominated the inflation of 1973 and 1974.

JANA... life filled with music.

Jana Calls Music 'Extension Of Self'

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

When Jana Nelson plays her flute, her cat registers his displeasure with a whining meow and runs from the room.

"Tippy" must surely be tone-deaf, for Jana's flute-playing recently took first place in the orchestral instruments category of the Music Teachers National Association divisional auditions in Sioux Falls, S.D.

This win will allow her to compete in national auditions during the MTNA convention in Denver in April.

"Extension Of Self"
"Music is an extension of yourself — another way of expression," related this junior at East High School.

"Music, art and poetry are my ways of expressing myself. I don't talk so good sometimes," she added with a laugh.

Although she likes modern music, she said she finds it easier to express herself in the classics.

"It's hard to play music you don't like, but it's something you've got to do," Jana reasoned. "When you get into a professional orchestra, you can't pick the music."

Harder than the choice between classical and contemporary music for Jana is a decision between the flute and the piano as her major instrument.

She takes a lesson on each weekly, and says the "flute has leaped ahead of the piano this year."

"But I plan to catch up," she quickly added.

Jana, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Nelson of 7145 S. Hampton Rd., thinks it's possible to play two instruments well and she's doing her best to prove her theory. She has accomplished a concert repertoire on both.

Lincoln Youth Symphony as well as high school orchestra, concert band and quintet keep her busy with rehearsals and performances.

Music Fills Days

To keep her days filled with music, she also belongs to a small group working on the Brandenburg Concertos and another, composed of local youths who have attended summer sessions at Rocky Ridge Music Center in Colorado.

"I think the only person who can understand a musician is another musician," Jana observed. So all her best friends are musicians and many are older, she said, because music is the common bond, not age.

Music is both work and relaxation for this 16-year-old, who has spent three-fourths of her life playing one instrument or another.

Sight-reading informally and jam sessions with friends are what she'd "rather do than go to a movie anytime."

Extracurricular school activities are minimal for this musical miss who "would rather come home and practice than make signs for the football team."

Often teased about her 4-foot, 11-inch frame, Jana quickly responds, "I don't care what I look like, just how I play."

Marvel Has Doubts About Exon's Tax Idea

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Despite Gov. J. James Exon's claim that a retroactive tax increase is required to "assure the state's solvency," Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings Friday said he is still not sure such action is necessary.

Marvel told newsmen he will withhold judgment on the question of whether the state's income tax rate must be increased this year until the legislative fiscal staff develops more information on the matter.

The Unicameral's Appropriations Committee chairman said the 10% rate "appears" to be headed upward, but he is not certain when the increase needs to be instituted.

Retroactive 13% Urged

Exon recommended a hike to 13%, retroactive to last Jan. 1, in presenting his budget address to the Legislature.

The Revenue Department has estimated that the state will run out of tax dollars in October if tax rates are not boosted.

Exon Budget Details Page 6

His initial staff reports, Marvel said, indicate that the state is "not in trouble in October" in spite of Exon administration claims.

But other information must be developed before he can determine revenue needs, he said.

Marvel said Exon's budget address was "a politically sound speech — one of the better I've heard him give."

Marvel was Exon's opponent in the 1974 gubernatorial election.

NU Budget Idea Shelled

One Exon recommendation which drew sustained fire from the appropriations chairman was the governor's proposal to hand the University of Nebraska its 1975-76 budget without restraints as to how it is spent.

Exon suggested "allowing the elected regents and their extensive administrative staff to set their own spending priorities."

That, Marvel said, represents "rank irresponsibility, and I will do everything I can to oppose it."

Such a grant of legislative appropriations power could be unconstitutional, Marvel said.

A dispute over flexibility in the university budget led to a budgeting split between Exon and Marvel during the governor's first term. They had cooperated extensively prior to that disagreement.

Tech College Funding

Marvel said the biggest difference between Exon's budget proposal and the recommendations offered earlier this week by the legislative fiscal staff appears to involve funding for technical community colleges.

The legislative staff proposed a state tax fund budget of $18.9 million for the schools;

Exon proposed $11.6 million, building that recommendation on "a return to local control with a moderate increase in state aid for the institutions."

The governor's plan would result in "increased property taxes on the local level," Marvel said.

Totals Relatively Close

In grand totals, the governor's operational budget proposal and the legislative staff recommendations are relatively close.

Whereas Exon proposed state tax fund spending totaling $327.4 million, the staff recommended a $336.4 million total.

Exon's general fund figure of $4.1 million for capital construction compared with the fiscal staff's $6.7 million.

Appropriations Committee hearings on state agency budget requests will begin next week.

Two of the largest spending agencies are on the first week's agenda — the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Public Institutions.

Residents Along Platte Willing To Compromise

Most Nebraskans living along the Platte River and its tributaries are willing to compromise to resolve conflicts over the future of water resources, according to Carroll M. Hamon, director of the Platte River Basin Level B study.

Public information meetings were held in Ogallala, Grand Island, Lexington and Scottsbluff in January. Hamon said more than 600 persons attended the meetings, and 100 returned questionnaires.

The goal of the study is to form a plan for managing water and related land resources in the 40,800-square-mile basin. The study is being conducted by the Missouri River Basin Commission with the state of Nebraska.

"Some of the conflicts that were apparent involved drainage of wetlands, wetlands for wildlife, stream channel clearing, preservation of wildlife habitat, increased levels of irrigation and adequate streamflow for fish and wildlife," Hamon said.

Some of those at the public meetings favored preserving the Platte in its present state, while others favored development that would increase agricultural, production he said. Most, however, said they wanted to find a middle road between economic growth and a quality environment.

A preliminary plan is to be written and sent out for another round of meetings in late spring. After that, a final plan will go to the Missouri River Basin Commission for its approval during the summer.

Makarios Attacks Cyprus Separation

Nicosia (UPI) — President Archbishop Makarios told thousands of demonstrating Greek Cypriots Friday his government will never accept a separate autonomous Turkish Cypriot state.

"We shall resist, we shall struggle, we shall sacrifice ourselves if necessary, but we shall not yield. We will on no account recognize facts accomplished," Makarios said of Thursday's proclamation of a Turkish Cypriot state in northern Cyprus.

He spoke after his cabinet, backed by Greece, decided to bring the new situation before the United Nations Security Council in New York.

The demonstrators, mostly high school students, massed in front of Makarios' office, chanting, "go to Moscow your beatitude" and "no to partition."

'Every Direction'

"We shall go to Moscow and in every direction in our efforts to safeguard the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of our island," Makarios told them.

After his speech, the bearded prelate walked through crowd. Police said there was no violence.

But tension in Nicosia has been building up since the Turkish Cypriot proclamation of a new state on the northern 40% of the island which has been occupied by 35,000 Turkish troops since last July's invasion.

Greek Cypriot newspapers said the Greek Cypriot National Guard and Turkish forces have both been placed on alert and U.N. peacekeeping troops were taking extra precautions.

The Greek government announced in Athens that Foreign Minister Dimitrios Betsios canceled the scheduled Sunday meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in West Germany because of the new developments in Cyprus.

Bitsios May Travel

Government sources said Bitsios may fly to New York with Greek Cypriot leaders to attend the U.N. Security Council meeting, tentatively scheduled for Monday, if his presence there is required.

A Greek Cypriot delegation, headed by Glafkos Clerides, speaker of the House of Representatives and chief Greek Cypriot negotiator with Turkish

Authorities Seek Missing Airplane

Chadron (AP) — The Nebraska Civil Air Patrol will begin an air search Saturday of a private plane that lost contact with the Chadron Airport just before a scheduled afternoon landing Friday.

Snow fell over the area Friday keeping search planes grounded.

The Civil Air Patrol identified the pilot of the plane as Capt.

David French of Bellevue who was stationed at Offutt Air Force Base.

The plane was en route from Weeping Water to Chadron. Three other persons were on board but their names were not released.

The plane was described as a single-engine four-place Flying Mooney Mark.

Bethesda Must Meet 3 'Conditions'

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

The final verdict in the Bethesda Foundation Hospital project application review is in. And although it may provide some cause for optimism among Bethesda officials, the decision is not without qualifications.

Released Friday by the Nebraska State Health Department's Division of Hospitals and Medical Facilities, the decision is that of a "conditional favorable finding," according to Jim Nordstrom, the division's assistant director of health, medical care administration.

'Three Conditions'

"We've laid three conditions on them for compliance," Nordstrom said. "Assuming they meet those three conditions then it will turn into a favorable finding."

Nordstrom said Bethesda officials have 30 days to "demonstrate compliance with the conditions which are as follows:

—The applicant "must request a meeting and work with the staff members of the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SeNHPC) . . . The purpose of these meetings will be to determine the appropriate roles for Bethesda Hospital to fulfill" in light of health care needs in Lancaster County.

—Appropriate steps should be taken to increase Bethesda's bed utilization.

—Procedures should be established that will lead to a study of the possibility of providing alternative services (such as alcohol treatment, inhalation therapy, etc.) at Bethesda.

The project application was submitted to the federally required review process due to the recent change in ownership of the hospital. Under the terms of the application, Bethesda (formerly Providence Hospital) would continue to operate with no changes in beds or services.

Reviewed Earlier

Prior to the Division of Hospitals and Medical Facilities decision, the application was reviewed by the SeNHPC and the State Health Department's Bureau of Comprehensive Health Planning.

Both agencies, serving in an advisory capacity, recommended that the division not endorse the application.

Those recommendations were based on a need assessment which indicated that, with no change in services on the part of Bethesda, the county would be increasingly over-bedded in the area of acute care.

Had the final finding been unfavorable, the hospital's receipt of Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement would have been in jeopardy.

As it stands now, if Bethesda officials accept the conditions of the finding "we would recommend" to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "that further possible jeopardy" should no longer exist, Nordstrom said.

If they do not accept the conditions, or do not appeal the finding within 30 days, the conditional finding will be withdrawn.

Another review process will then be initiated, Nordstrom said.

Unusual Situation

The division's decision to okay conditionally the application, in the face of recommendations to the contrary, is a somewhat unusual situation, Nordstrom said.

However, he added that "in part" this finding does support "those recommendations because of its conditional nature."

"Certain points of view that were expressed in the finding by the SeNHPC could not be accepted (by the division) as directly applicable to the law," Nordstrom said. And he added, "The law isn't exactly perfect in accommodating this type of situation" (in which a review is called for because of a change in ownership).

"The SeNHPC did have a point," he said. "But that point wouldn't necessarily stand of itself."

"Many of those recommendations were accepted in the final finding," Nordstrom said. But the division, because of its position as "the most accountable agency," could not necessarily adopt all the viewpoints of prior reviewers.

Contacted late Friday afternoon, Bethesda Director Tom Bowen said, "The board of directors, medical staff, administrators and personnel are pleased with the determination."

However, he withheld comment on the hospital's future course of action until a thorough examination of the decision is made.

Fugitive Taken

Gretna (AP) — Sarpy and Douglas County authorities took a fugitive into custody Friday who had holed up at a house and threatened them with a small arsenal of weapons. He was identified as Harold Berry, 20, of South Carolina.

Sarpy County Sheriff Pat Thomas said Berry was a walkaway from Morgan State prison in West Virginia and had escaped from the U.S. marshal's office Friday afternoon.

Major Gap Still Exists Between Israel, Egypt

©The New York Times
By TERENCE SMITH
Jerusalem — A major gap still separates Israel and Egypt on the terms of a new interim agreement after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's preliminary round of talks, but senior Israeli officials think there is a good chance that it can be bridged in future negotiations.

This was the view among top government officials here after Kissinger concluded his discussions in Jerusalem Friday afternoon and departed for Aqaba, Jordan, where he was to meet with King Hussein.

Russian Hits Peace Effort

Moscow (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, in his first public speech since dropping out of sight nearly two months ago, attacked Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peacemaking efforts Friday, but said the Kremlin still is committed to detente with the West.

In probably the most forceful expression of Soviet thinking since Kissinger began his Middle East shuttle diplomacy more than a year ago, the Communist Party chief called for a quick resumption of peace talks in Geneva.

The Soviets have been pushing for a resumption of the Geneva talks where they would have a more visible role in the peacemaking process and tend to eclipse Kissinger's efforts. The United States is opposed to resuming the talks on grounds they will degenerate into wrangling over seating with the Palestine Liberation Organization, which Israel does not recognize.

Propaganda Salvo Fired At Russians

Hong Kong (UPI) — In a propaganda broadside coinciding with the resumption of stalled Sino-Soviet border talks, China Friday called the Soviet Union a "bully" trying to take over Western Europe.

The Chinese Communist Party newspaper "People's Daily" said the Soviets "not only enslave and plunder the third world countries and people but also bully and exploit a number of second world nations" — an apparent reference to Europe.

The article, which was broadcast by Peking Radio, accused the Soviets of "trying to infiltrate into and gain control over" the countries of western Europe.

"Neither the Egyptians nor we really conceded anything in this opening round of talks," a senior Israeli official said Friday. "The hard bargaining remains to be done."

Kissinger has agreed to return to the area in mid-March to make an intensive effort to bridge the differences between Jerusalem and Cairo and conclude a new interim agreement. During this preliminary round, both sides reportedly outlined their general positions to the secretary but avoided detailed negotiation.

According to Israeli officials, Kissinger kept the talks deliberately general. "He obviously wanted to take our temperature and that of the Egyptians," one government official said.

Israeli sources said they had so far sensed no pressure — direct or indirect — from Kissinger to make specific concessions. They frankly expect such pressure to come, but insist that so far there has been no hint of it, either in the form of jaw-boning or politically pointed delays in arms deliveries, economic aid or credits.

Israel, according to authoritative sources here, outlined three possible negotiating options to Kissinger for transmittal to Egypt. The sources said that Israel stands ready to negotiate on the basis of any of the three, which were described as follows:

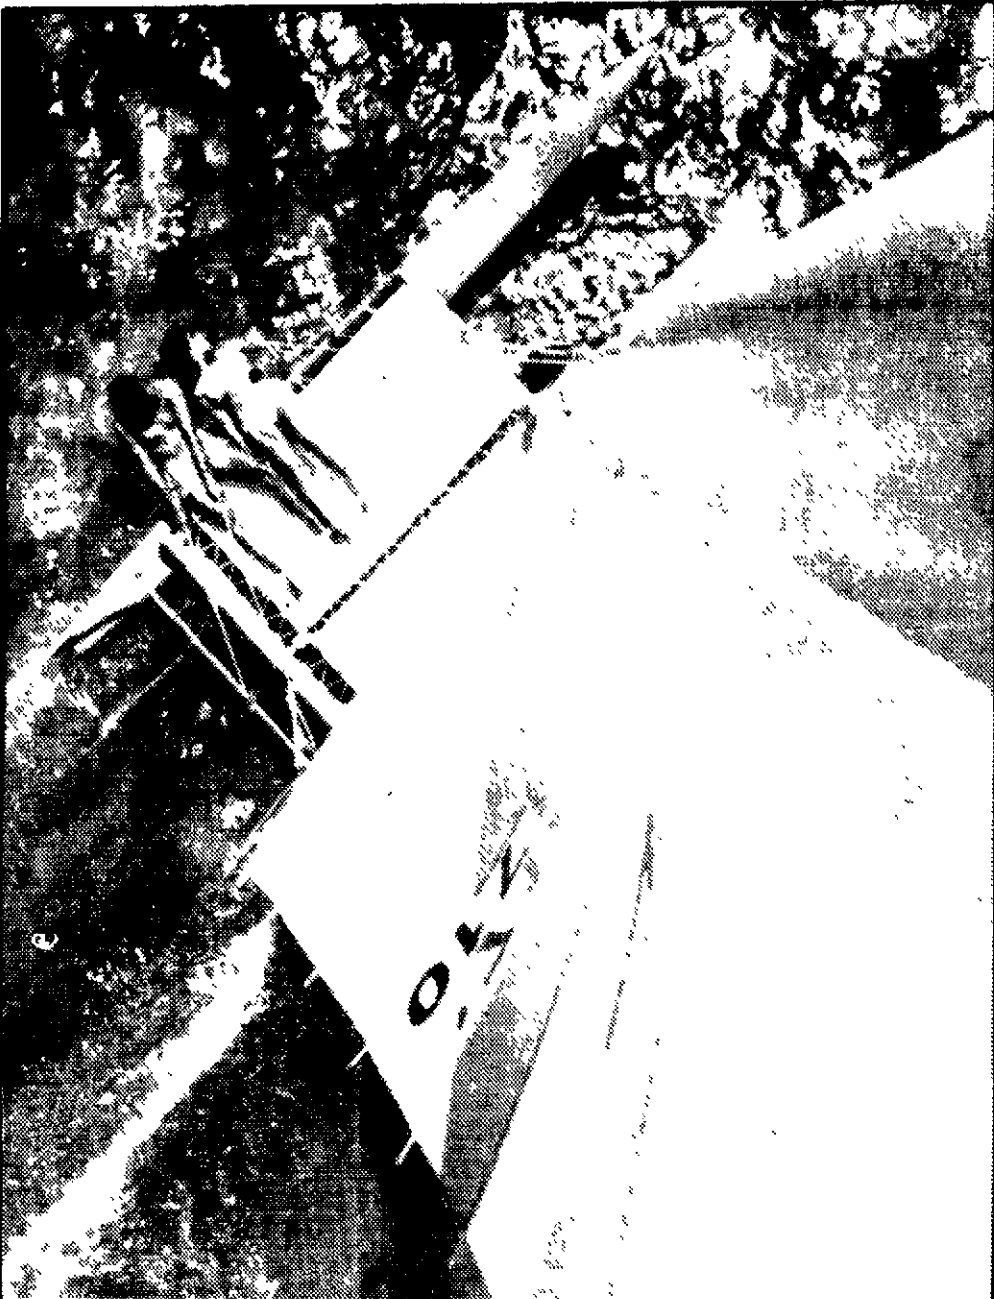

—A full and formal peace treaty. Although no one here believes that there is a chance to negotiate such a pact now, the Israelis stress that they are willing to give up most of the Sinai in exchange for such an agreement. They would insist on retaining only the Gaza Strip-Rafiah area, a land link to Sharm-el-Sheik and the Red Sea promontory itself.

—A far-reaching nonbelligerency agreement. This agreement, which Premier Yitzhak Rabin reportedly hopes to negotiate, would offer an Israeli withdrawal from both the Sinai mountain passes and the oil fields at Abu Rodeis in exchange for a "formal and explicit" commitment from Egypt to end the use of force and the threat of force in resolving its political and territorial claims against Israel.

Such an agreement, in the Israeli view, should be unlimited in time and unlinked to any subsequent agreements Israel might reach with other Arab states. Israel would press for the demilitarization of the areas that it evacuates and a long-term extension of the mandate of the United Nations emergency force in the Sinai.

Without a firm Egyptian commitment to renounce the use of force, the Israelis say, they will refuse to withdraw from either the passes or the oilfields.

—A limited disengagement agreement, under this plan, which was outlined by Deputy Premier Yigal Allon in Washington in December, Israel would withdraw from 20 to 30 miles, excluding the passes and the oilfields, in exchange for a temporary Egyptian commitment to refrain from resuming the war.

Sailing In February Is Fine Off Hawaii

A twin-hulled sailboat, generically called a catamaran, slices the sparkling waters off Lanika, Hawaii. The sailing couple obviously enjoys the warm breezes and bright sunshine while most of the rest of the country shivers in its winter clothes. The two fiberglass hulls of this boat are separated by a canvas trampoline platform. Devotees of the twin-riggered pleasure craft claim the boats can move faster than the wind.

Sirica Won't Set Aside Verdicts

©The New York Times

Washington — Federal District Judge John J. Sirica refused on Friday to set aside or to change in any way the guilty verdicts returned in the Watergate cover-up case against four former Nixon administration officials.

Instead, he set sentencing for all four men — John N. Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Robert C. Maridan, once among the most powerful officials in the nation — for next Friday morning at the United States Courthouse.

"None of the defendants has shown that a new trial would be in the interest of justice," Sirica said in a nine-page ruling replying to — and denying — a variety of post-trial motions by the four men.

He also said in effect that the evidence at the trial supported the conviction.

"The common ground for all of these motions," the judge said, is the allegation that the evidence of their guilt is insufficient to sustain the verdicts of guilty which were returned. The court has carefully considered the points raised in each of these motions and the accompanying memoranda, but cannot agree with the defendants' conclusion.

It may be some time before any of the four begin to serve any penalty that is imposed because of appeals.

Princess Plans Wedding

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Princess Christina of the Netherlands said Friday she will marry a Cuban-born social worker who runs a school for poor black children in Harlem, and that she and her commoner husband-to-be plan to work and live in New York as "ordinary people."

The 27-year-old princess, who suffers from congenital near blindness, introduced her tall and dark-haired fiance, Jorge Guillermo, 29, in a St. Valentine's Day appearance at Soestdyk Palace, during which the couple beamed and held hands.

She said they will marry during the summer in the Netherlands.

The princess will not be the first in her family to marry a commoner. Her 32-year-old sister Margriet, fifth in line of succession to the throne, is married to Pieter van Vollenhoven, a Dutch lawyer.

Princess Christina, youngest of four daughters, is ninth in line but said she would not seek parliamentary approval for her marriage, implying she is ready to relinquish her succession rights.

The princess proudly showed off her engagement ring, an onyx stone set in diamonds. She lifted her fiance's hand and pulled back his sleeve to reveal gold cufflinks she had given him.

The princess said music brought them together. They were introduced in 1972 in New York where the princess teaches French and music at a Montessori school.

Swedish-Soviet Tension Rises With Hopes For Baltic Sea Oil

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden's national defense and its hopes to be an oil producing nation have become involved in an unusual increase of tension with the Soviet Union.

The bad feeling has been growing for some time and concerns particularly the two countries' rights in the Baltic Sea, important in terms of military strategy and potentially rich in oil.

The Soviets, through a Tass news agency commentary, last week attacked Gen. Stig Synnergren, the Swedish chief of staff, after he issued a warning about improved Soviet logistics strength and heightened ground force commitments in the north.

The general's statement was very much out of the ordinary. Although it has one of the world's biggest per capita defense budgets, Sweden, as a neutral and a country that has avoided war for the past 160 years, normally steers clear of publicly naming its enemies.

This time, Synnergren said that the railroad networks between the Soviet Union and neutral Finland were being continually integrated and that two more lines would be added during the next five years. What this meant, he said, was that the Soviet Union could simultaneously send at least 12 divisions to Sweden's Finnish border.

The Russians accused Synnergren of trying to increase tensions.

The underlying Baltic problem stems from attempts to draw the boundary of the continental shelf between the Soviet and Swedish coastlines.

Both countries have signed a multilateral convention that sets boundaries in the Baltic on the median line between the two countries involved. Each then has the right to do undersea exploration — notably for oil — in its half.

The Russians draw the line right down the middle of the water between the two continental land masses, bringing Soviet rights to within four or five miles of the strategic Swedish island of Gotland.

This would not only violate Sweden's defense strategies, but would sharply limit the area of the Baltic available to it for oil exploration. Oil has already been found in southern Gotland, whose population is about 55,000, and tests in the waters around it have brought optimistic reports of the possibility of major oil finds.

Author P. G. Wodehouse Dies

Remsenberg, N.Y. (AP) — P. G. Wodehouse, for more than 70 years one of the English language's most prolific and best loved writers of humor and creator of the butler Jeeves, died Friday night. He was 93.

Death came quietly at Southampton Hospital on Long Island.

"I'd like to go in my sleep," his sister-in-law Nella Wodehouse quoted him as saying and added:

"And he did. There was no pain. He went quietly, at 8 o'clock."

Pelham Grenville Wodehouse, known as "Plum" to his friends, was knighted last New Year's Day — the last of many honors and the one that pleased him best.

The creator of Jeeves — the quintessential butler — said he was especially pleased because the knighthood wiped out the lingering taint of World War II treason charges based on some broadcasts he made from France.

Mrs. Wodehouse said her husband — author of 96 books, 33 musical comedies and innumerable song lyrics — entered the hospital Tuesday for tests to see what was causing a skin rash.

Bonsai Is Live Work Of Art

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

"If you can re-pot a geranium or prune a rosebush" you can master the art of bonsai, said Rick Pinkerton, Lincoln resident who counts bonsai among his hobbies.

Bonsai, (pronounced bone-sigh) for those who may not be familiar with it, is, fundamentally, "the art of miniaturizing trees," according to Pinkerton.

In addition to keeping the plant relatively small, the bonsai grower "trains it to grow in a shape that suggests 'dignity, maturity and grace,'" he continued.

A bonsai is "a work of art that's alive," said Pinkerton, who occasionally teaches classes in the techniques of bonsai. "It's meant to evoke a response that is similar" to that evoked by a painting.

"There is no tree called the 'bonsai,'" he said, explaining that many varieties of plants can be used successfully.

Although the art of bonsai originated in China, Pinkerton said that "bonsai as it is known today was developed in Japan about 125 years ago.

"There are no clear records" indicating exactly when the art began, Pinkerton said. However, based on Chinese scroll drawings, it appears that it dates back at least to the 8th century A.D.

"Modern bonsai tends towards the natural. The more natural the better," Pinkerton said, explaining that earlier bonsai growers attempted to achieve highly grotesque shapes.

According to Pinkerton, bonsai "reached its finest state in Tokyo, where people live shoulder to shoulder. In order to get greenery into their houses, they developed the modern art of bonsai."

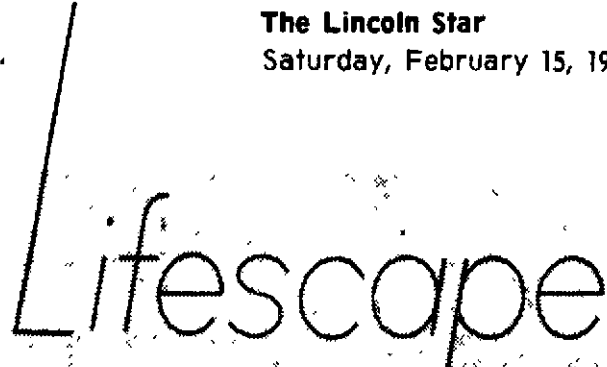

Bonsai growers have a variety of standard attitudes and forms into which they can shape their plants.

One of the things a bonsai grower strives for in his or her plant is what Pinkerton describes as "an illusion of age."

"It's not how old the tree is, it's how old it looks," he suggested that it is a breach of etiquette in bonsai circles to ask someone how old his or her bonsai is.

Bonsai "techniques aren't difficult," Pinkerton said. And although "a bonsai is never finished," it doesn't take much time on a day-to-day basis.

PINKERTON . . . challenge of intricate shaping is real joy of hobby.

Correct Plant Key To Successful Bonsai

It goes without saying that the most important consideration in creating a bonsai is the selection of the plant.

Although there are many varieties — both deciduous and coniferous — that can be grown successfully, Rick Pinkerton, Lincoln bonsai hobbyist, said that the beginner should start with something inexpensive.

"The beginner is apt to lose two or three plants before he gets the hang of it," Pinkerton said.

If time is not of the essence, the bonsai grower may choose to start a plant from seed, use a seedling or take a cutting from a larger plant.

However, Pinkerton said, "If you want appreciable results in a short time," the best approach is to purchase a nursery plant that is already beyond the seedling stage.

"These plants make ideal bonsai if you get the right one," Pinkerton said.

The "right one" will have certain characteristics that will lend themselves to bonsai, he continued. And the shopper should look for the following points in buying a plant:

1) The plant should have small leaves or needles. Junipers "of practically any kind" are effective and easy to grow, Pinkerton said. Spruce, Chinese elm, maple and small-leaved oak trees are other possibilities. Those who would like a flowering bonsai might select a crab apple, wild plum or red bud plant.

2) It should have "a large trunk in relation to its height. If it has visible roots, so much the better."

3) It should "have an abundance of foliage, but it should be graceful and well-balanced."

Pinkerton said that he usually starts out with pot that is a little large for the plant, to allow for some growth.

Different varieties of plants will require different soil mixtures, Pinkerton said. And bonsai growers should consult a greenhouse or plant book to determine which soil mixture is right for his or her plant.

The soil should allow for "exceptional drainage" Pinkerton said, and it should be "bone dry" and sterile when the plant is planted.

Six weeks after the plant is planted, the shaping — which is done by wiring and pruning the branches — can begin.

Because pruning and wiring techniques are so many and varied, Pinkerton suggested that the bonsai grower consult a book to learn them. (He recommends "Bonsai Culture and Care of Miniature Trees," published by Sunset Books, as an inexpensive book for beginners.)

However, for shaping, he did suggest the use of annealed copper wire which should be cut off (not unwound from) the plant when its shape is "set."

The care and feeding of a bonsai is not difficult, but it should be attended to faithfully.

Bonsai love sunlight, Pinkerton said, and they should be kept outdoors during warm weather. "These are not really indoor plants except for display and wintering," he said, and he suggested that those who would like to have bonsai indoors should have several plants that can be rotated between house and yard.

The plants should be watered when the soil is about 75% dry, Pinkerton said; and they may need to be watered as much as once a day when outside.

Pinkerton uses a fine spray or waters from the bottom (by immersing the pot in water) to prevent the soil from washing away.

Although bonsai do not require a great deal of work after the initial planting, the beginner should realize that, as Pinkerton put it, "The bonsai is never finished."

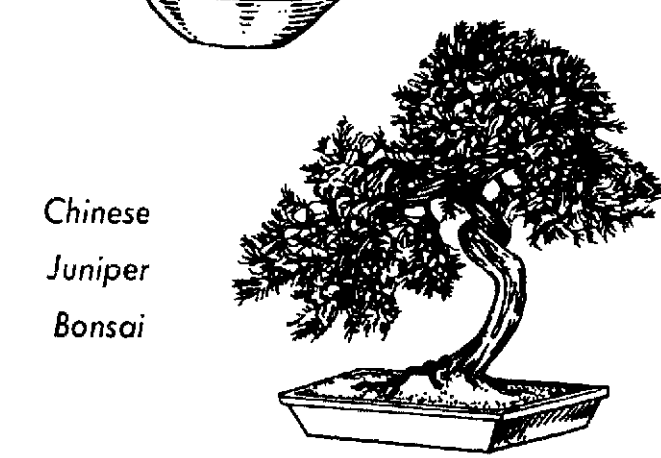

There is always a branch, or a portion of a branch that should be re-wired or pruned to obtain the desired shape.

But to bonsai growers, that's the real joy of their hobby.

"You're striving for perfection, but you never reach it," Pinkerton said.

Too Late To Leave After 36 Years?

DEAR ABBY: Is it too late to leave a husband after 36 years of marriage? Through the years, I have put up with plenty of abuse, both verbal and physical, but I always forgave him.

Last night was the last straw. At supper, my husband had taken second helpings of everything on the table. We were just about finished when I noticed a little more stew in the bowl, so I put it on his plate.

He flew into a rage, saying he wasn't a garbage can, then he picked up his plate and shoved it into my face, all over my glasses and in my hair! This happened last night and I am still so infuriated. I can hardly control myself.

He didn't apologize (He never does.) He just said, "Well, you asked for it when you tried to force the leftovers on me!"

I suppose it's too late to leave him, but if you were in my place, what would you have done? Or better yet, what would YOU do now?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: What I would do and what YOU should do are probably two different things. If you have put up with his abuse for 36 years, you either must have liked it, or felt that you had no choice. Now, you should ask yourself the question, "Would I be better off without him — or with him?" There's your answer.

DEAR ABBY: I'm the mother of a 15-year-old daughter and a 14-year-old son. They're good kids as far as behavior goes, but they are a pair of lazy slob when it comes to keeping their rooms picked up.

I have pleaded with them, yelled at them, and threatened them with the worst kind of punishment, but nothing works.

We live in a lovely new home, and each has a beautiful room, but you would never know it.

Abby, I am not a fanatic, nor am I unreasonable. I just want them to hang up their clothes and keep their rooms presentable. I don't even ask them to make their own beds.

When guests come over and want to see the house, I have to keep these two rooms closed off because I'm ashamed of the way they look most of the time.

Can you help me?

GIVING UP

DEAR GIVING: You are fighting a losing battle, Mother. Say no more to them, keep their doors closed, and enter their rooms only to change the beds, and rake it once a week. When they get tired of living in that mess, they'll clean it up. Until then, don't let it aggravate you. It's not worth it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl whose best features are my legs. Believe me, I don't have much else, but I've been told I could make a fortune modeling hosiery. Naturally I show them off every chance I get.

Here is one girl you will never catch in pants. I always wear a dress or shorts, which brings me to my question: Are hot pants still in style for summer? And even if they aren't, should I wear them when shorts are appropriate? Thank you.

GOOD LEGS

DEAR GOOD: The "styles" today are so flexible that anything goes. Go ahead and wear hot pants. And if they catch fire, you can put them out with your pantyhose. (Get it? Panty hose!)

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The bidding:

Opening lead — six of spades.

There are times when a player has an embarrassment of riches. For example, consider this deal where East opened a spade and South bid two hearts — which West, with four or five probable trump tricks, eagerly doubled.

North showed unusual confidence in partner's overall by passing — instead of running to three diamonds. East displayed equal confidence in partner's double by passing — though this was somewhat less firmly based, considering East's paucity of high cards for his opening bid.

East won the spade lead with the ace and returned a low club, won by West with the queen. West continued with a club to the ace, whereupon declarer cashed the king of spades, ruffed a spade and played the Q-K-A of diamonds, discarding a club. West ruffed, scoring the third trick for the defense, and found himself on the lead in this position:

North
♦ 9 8 5
♣ 10

West East
♥ K Q 10 7 3 ♠ Immateral
South
♥ A J 9 6 5

Overly endowed with trumps, West could score only two trump tricks at this stage. He led the king of hearts, which held, and continued with the three to declarer's six. South returned the nine to the ten, and West very sadly had to lead a trump from the Q-7 to declarer's A-J, putting an end to the grievous affair.

So South made two hearts doubled — largely because the trumps were divided 6-0 instead of 5-1. Had East held one trump and led it at trick two, the story would have been altogether different.

Ford's Talent Search

President Ford says he intends to nominate Carla Anderson Hills, now an assistant attorney general, as secretary of Housing and Urban Development to succeed James T. Lynn, who earlier this week was sworn in as director of the Office of Management and Budget. Another round, as it were, in the game of musical chairs which is played at the highest reaches of government.

Mrs. Hills, if confirmed, would be only the third woman Cabinet member in history.

Already the nomination has been blasted by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Development Committee, who says that Mrs. Hills, a Republican, "has absolutely no known qualifications, experience or background to become secretary of HUD."

Opposition reportedly also was raised by the National Association of Home Builders. The U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities were reported shocked by the President's choice.

Although Mrs. Ford has lobbied for a woman Cabinet member and is said to be "thrilled" by the proposed nomination, the President said the choice of Mrs. Hills was not made on the basis of sex and that she was the best person he could find for the job.

The immediate negative reaction to Mrs. Hills' proposed appointment seems to suggest that some are against her because she is a woman and some of the special interests (local government officials or homebuilders) are upset with the President because he didn't pick one of their boys.

We're not all that certain that a nominee has to have specific experience in a particular field if he or she has demonstrated intellectual and administrative talents.

Elliot L. Richardson of Saturday Night Massacre fame, who is now U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain and a potential presidential nominee, was the Nixon administration's jack-of-all-trades. He was secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, secretary of Defense (two somewhat unrelated fields) and attorney general of the United States. He has held other positions, but of those three major posts, Richardson really only qualified by experience and education to be attorney general — which was the last cabinet job he held. But Richardson is intelligent, a good administrator and can work with people.

Perhaps Mrs. Hills has similar talents. As chief of the Justice Department's civil division, she can't be said to be totally lacking in experience or ability.

Experience and specific knowledge of the field are very important qualifications for any job. But time and time again in industry or government it has been proven that smart, aggressive, adaptable people can become successful in just about any area they are placed.

We're reminded of the story about the guy who was opening a new bar. He said he didn't want to hire experienced help to get him started because "experience means they already know how to steal."

What that can mean in a general sense is that it is perfectly all right to be skeptical of experience and that experience alone is not the absolute qualification.

The confirmation process might uncover the unpleasant truth that Mrs. Hills is indeed a lightweight when it comes to administration and lacks even a basic awareness of the housing and development needs of the nation.

But we don't think the President's judgment is that faulty or that he has been that negligent in his homework that he would make a substandard Cabinet appointment. Richard Nixon might have made appointments on the basis of political considerations only but Ford is not cut from the same cloth. The new President chose Nelson Rockefeller to be vice president against his own best political interests and his first two Cabinet appointments — Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman and Attorney General Edward Levi — were praiseworthy.

The President is attempting to achieve balance and ability in his appointments and he is to be commended for his efforts.

A Slight Shift

It is with the same grudging attitude displayed by the Lincoln Police Department that we take note of the department's slight tilt toward a more reasonable policy governing phone calls by alleged drunks.

Assistant Police Chief Dale Adams said the department is relaxing its policy so that people who appear capable will be allowed to place a telephone call to an attorney or family member. It has been the policy to have police officers place the call at their discretion on the grounds that the person may be too drunk to place a call. The relaxed policy is being tried on an experimental basis, the department said.

The policy of holding some people incommunicado for periods of time — because jailers make judgments about their condition which may be far wide of the mark and because the police don't always make those calls right away — is one of the prime targets of people who believe department arrest and detention procedures are in certain cases violative of peoples' rights.

This slight change in policy can be read as an admission that police department critics are not entirely wrong.

But the slight shift in policy is that only. Until unwritten, discretionary policies which can't be adequately monitored are exchanged for procedures observant of peoples' rights which are institutionalized in writing and scrupulously followed, conditions really will not have changed for the better in the Lincoln jail.

By JAMES E. YOUNG
Lincoln, Nebr.

As I have said before in letters to the editor, I have a personal interest in the fate of the old City Hall/federal building block. The block is a part of a 160-acre tract that was purchased at a cost of $140 by my great-great-grandfather, John M. Young, in the early 1860's.

After coming to the area during the Civil War, John Young worked long and hard to make the then "Lancaster" a thriving city. Young was an elder in the Methodist Church and founded a girls' seminary on this quarter-section parcel of land. The girls' school stood on the site now occupied by the Journal-Star Printing Company. The elder's attempt at education for young ladies on the frontier proved futile as his seminary burned in 1866. Elder Young deeded the entire 160 acres to the then Village of Lancaster.

The gift of such valuable acreage seems quite noble in retrospect; however, we must remember that all of the early settlers were what they called "land-rich". At that time there was quite a bit of real estate available in the area. Elder Young's four sons returned from the Civil War and homesteaded in Lancaster. Young's girls' school had gone up in smoke, and evidently he had no more use for the property. It must be remembered, however, that the elder did give the property to the people, presumably for use by the people.

I have long felt that the land would be most appreciated as a park. A couple of years ago, I was obliged to serve as a juror in one of the federal courtrooms in the old Post Office. In the silence of the courtroom, I was awed by the extravagant oak woodwork.

After reading this most recent Column A, I returned to the old federal building. Nearly deserted now, it is an amazing edifice. Walking in the 10th St. door, one is dwarfed by the 18-foot ceilings throughout the building. The dark stained-oak woodwork is accented by polished brass fittings and marbled floors. The building is in remarkable condition and it is frightening to consider its falling to a wrecking ball.

It is my understanding that the woodwork in the new federal courtrooms will be butternut. Oak was the fad when the old Post Office was built; cost makes its use prohibitive today. Stepping inside, anyone appreciates the preservationists' view. The most exquisite wood artistry, I believe, would be found upstairs in Judge Urbom's courtroom. Too few citizens are aware of this valuable possession we all share.

The magnificent Stuart Theater of our youth has become a synthetic, glass and formica movie house.

Column A reporters Guenther and Olig were able to give their readers a quick glimpse over Larry Enersen's shoulder at his drawing board. With the demise of the Stuart, I believe that Lincoln needs just such a performing arts center.

I've changed my mind on the subject of a park on the site; perhaps people would appreciate and use such a performing arts center even more than they would a park. The proximity of the downtown and university communities makes the block even more attractive for such use. Green space needs to be added to the block, perhaps at the expense of some of the concrete that was provided for the Post Office's truck fleet.

Parking is a consideration, but since the Journal-Star is drooling hungrily over the Haymarket Block, north of Q Street, just itching to turn it into a parking lot, that other parcel of Elder Young's gift might serve as a parking area for theater-goers.

You folks who work downtown, get out of your offices; take a few minutes over your lunch hour, step into the old Post Office, then imagine turning Larry Enersen loose in the building. The results would be beautiful.

Problems For The Home

Lincoln, Neb.
I am writing in regard to the open-campus issue. As a senior, I have observed open campus for the past three years. I can say without hesitation that it has worked with a minimal amount of problems. The problems of smoking, drinking and skipping are problems that need to be solved in the home and NOT in the school.

These problems would not be solved by closing down open campus, because there are 24 hours in a day. It is unfair to single out 40 minutes of the day and attribute these problems to only this time. Closing open campus would instead destroy student morale.

Full-Time Baby-Sitter?

Lincoln, Neb.
The open-campus policy allowing students to leave the school grounds during their lunch period has come under fire from a group of parents recently. They cite many problems that they say stem from the open-campus policy.

The closing of open campus will not solve problems schools had before and always will have, such as smoking, drinking alcohol, truancies and tardies.

Open campus should not be the scapegoat for problems that should be solved in the home by the student and the student's parents or guardian.

If the schools are a baby-sitting service to make sure students do not leave during lunch and to teach them right from wrong, then shouldn't the schools be responsible for students after 3:15, on weekends and during summer vacation?

Open Campus, Scapegoat

Lincoln, Neb.
In order for the poll concerning open campus, conducted by Mr. Bert Schlichting (Jan. 29 news coverage) to have any validity, documented proof assuring an unbiased survey should be presented.

Did the contacted parents have young people in high school? Is there documented proof of drinking in homes during the noon hour or "doped-up kids" in parked cars? What percentage of the whole student body does this include? According to the article, Mr. Schlichting's accusations are alleged examples and do not originate from documented proof!

Mr. Schlichting links the act of delinquency, namely, that his daughter ran away from home for a week, with open campus. If his daughter wanted to run away, she could have done this at any time. Why is open campus being designated as the scapegoat? This is a family problem.

The majority of the students follow the school rules and work for the good of their school; it is only a small minority who abuse open campus. To punish all students for the actions of a few is unjust. Maybe a more severe punishment should be involved for those students who do abuse the privilege.

Mr. Schlichting's solution seems to be that if open campus is abolished, this will cure all problems. If the alleged examples are true, then these problems should be solved in the home. Abolishing open campus will only make students resentful.

I am extremely happy to see parents becoming concerned about their students, but I question if their concern is in the proper direction. Instead of worrying where their students eat, parents should direct their attention to more important matters, such as the type of education their students are receiving; whether the material being taught is relevant and challenging and whether they are learning the necessary skills which will enable them to grow, develop, and mature into responsible adults.

We urge readers to send views to: Open Campus, Box 81014, Lincoln.

Secretaries Do The Work

Broken Bow, Neb.
Efforts are underway to launch a new beef check-off. It is called Beef Development Taskforce (BDT).

This program started a few years ago, holding 1¢ per head. It was so good a deal that a short while back, they upped it to 10¢ a head. Finding that most cattlemen let this increase slide by, BDT has decided, "Why not try for approximately 30¢ a head? Maybe in the offices we can drink a better brand of coffee. If this works, we can label it Market Development and Production Research. After all, if Congress will help us pull the right strings, it might bring in $30 million to $40 million a year."

Cattlemen should stop and consider: Since this so-called promotion jumped from 1¢ to 10¢ per head, every time a critter is sold, the average sale price of cattle per head has fallen from about $300 to $100 but the "check-off" still stands at the higher amount.

People put in appointed offices with big titles and big salaries are bleeding this state and country blind. Back-bone is what cattlemen need, as well as the rest of the country.

Nebraska is known as an agricultural state. How many times in the past two years have appointed officers in our Department of Agriculture (drawing $18,000 to $50,000 a year) come out with reports which, three to eight weeks later, are corrected? Survey figures in these reports seem to have a high rate of inaccuracy. Or maybe stronger words should be used for "inaccurate."

The program today also seems to be education. Be sure it isn't over-sold — maybe at the No. 1 level, the university.

Everyone is looking for federal aid. Maybe the government is so broke it can't give until it first takes away in far bigger amounts. It works on a percentage basis. Maybe they want inflation. After all, 15% of $500 is a lot greater than 15% of $100.

Farmers and cattlemen should wake up! They don't need an appointed officer to lead them down the wrong road. They know when they take the hide from the critter, the meat is red. They know fall wheat is planted in the fall, and spring wheat is planted in the spring. They shouldn't wait for someone else to help them — they should help themselves, get tough.

We are proud of our state and country, but let's do away with about 50% of the appointed coffee-drinkers (to put it mildly). After all, the secretary does most of the work in many offices, with far less salary and probably a more sensible title.

Progressive Program Sought

Lincoln, Neb.
Nebraska soybean producers have asked the Legislature to be self-taxed up to one cent per bushel to finance a program of research, education, market development and promotion for their product. This could be a great self-help program for one of the state's fastest growing industries.

Farm Editor Dominick Costello has missed several important points in reporting the request for this program. One of the largest attendances of farmers at a legislative hearing appeared to support this legislation, LB74, where in a room full of people prepared to give five hours of testimony for the bill, only two people appeared on the opposing side, and one of these gave excellent testimony in support of the program.

A similar program for wheat, in existence for nearly two decades in Nebraska, has been able to provide additional research funds for every good genetic, quality control, disease prevention and utilization program presented by the University of Nebraska for a number of years. This program has produced an average of about $250,000 per year, with which representatives of the wheat farmers can decide themselves what programs are most needed.

New varieties developed with assistance from this program have been credited with as much as an extra $20 million yearly return to wheat farmers. It also provided well-funded market development programs. All of this activity is operated under the protective agencies of state government entrusted with supervising the activities of spending such funds.

Mr. Costello has further failed to note that if the agricultural interests so active today in efforts to acquire a multi-million-dollar new plant industry complex at the University of Nebraska are really interested in their program, then they should develop possible means of funding the extra personnel and activities for such a giant undertaking.

The wheat program has demonstrated the excellent means of supplying funds from producers themselves, and a similar program now requested for soybeans and one later for corn could assure Nebraska farmers an estimated $1 million per year that farmers' advisory committees could direct into the programs they desire most for one of the greatest self-help programs ever developed for Nebraska agriculture.

Unfortunately, instead of picturing the great demand by farmers for such action, Mr. Costello has used too much valuable space on reporting a few individual self-interest vendettas that should not overshadow a badly needed progressive program sought by the Nebraska farmers.

Threat Of Unemployment

Lincoln, Neb.
I feel that the scare of job losses is truly one for concern. As the samplings prove, the sureness of maintaining jobs is quickly lessening. More and more people live day after day with the threat of losing their jobs. The threat is heightening toward another depression.

Jobs should remain plentiful. Even though machines take over most of the work, there should still be plenty of jobs. If there are not enough, more should be made. Maybe we should go back to doing a few simple things by hand rather than by machine. Another solution might be to hire extra help to make everyone's job simpler and less tiring and to fill in for ill employees.

Something should be done or the whole nation may go jobless, a depression may result and then poverty, hunger and sickness will be the pervading things that money will be spent on instead of things to better and enrich the world we live in.

Suffering From Parkingitis

Lincoln, Neb.
When it comes to the matter of what to do with the block occupied by the old federal building at 10th and P Streets, how about giving the ordinary citizen a break and turn it into a municipally owned parking lot at reasonable rates?

I fail to follow the line of reasoning that urges people to support the downtown area (and it should be supported) and yet fails to provide adequate parking space so that people can get to the downtown merchants, professional offices, and other downtown area facilities and services. Does anybody know how many hundreds of parking spaces have been wiped out by so-called aesthetic improvements, bus stops, etc. — including malls with their beautiful squirting water-works (costly, but commercially useless) — in, say, the last 10 to 15 years? Further, just why should every available off-street parking area be turned into a financial bonanza for private interests?

This may not be the total solution to downtown Lincoln's problems, but keep in mind the fact that you can't do business in an area you can't get to! The downtown area doesn't suffer from the heartbreak of psoriasis; it suffers from the frustration of parkingitis!

What Amendment Says

Lincoln, Neb.
Perhaps it is well to call attention to what the Equal Rights Amendment does say rather than to what it is purported to say.

With respect to education, the Equal Rights Amendment will require that state-supported schools at all levels eliminate laws or regulations or official practices which exclude women or limit their numbers. The amendment would not require quotas for men and women, nor would it require that schools accurately reflect the sex distribution in the population; rather, admission would turn on the basis of ability or other relevant characteristics, and not on the basis of sex. A similar result may be expected with respect to the distribution of scholarship funds. State schools and colleges currently limited to one sex would have to allow both sexes to attend. Employment and promotion in public schools would, as in the case of other governmental action, have to be free from sex discrimination.

It should also be noted with respect to education that the amendment would not require that dormitories or bathrooms be shared by men and women. As explained above, the amendment does not prohibit the separation of the sexes where the right of privacy is involved. As the Association of the Bar of the City of New York pointed out in its report, "the constitutional right of privacy could be used to sanction separate male and female facilities for activities which involve disrobing, sleeping, and personal bodily functions."

A Nice Place — Unless

Beatrice, Neb.
The "Report of the 1974 Juvenile Services Study" of Dec. 20, 1974, (prepared for the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare by Brian Sarate, Ph.D.) was rather critical of juvenile probation services in the State of Nebraska. Some statistics cited in that report could be related to recently published inquiries concerning Judge Dennis Winkle's tenure and adjudications in Gage County Juvenile Court.

Although this writer will concede that statistics often misrepresent the facts, a county-by-county comparison could be used as a potentially valid method of establishing a measure of accountability for juvenile court decisions or at the very least, an indication of the general handling of juveniles. Gage County, for example, appears to have a proportionately high number of juveniles committed to state institutions (7.6 per 6,935 juvenile age population) as compared to Lancaster (29 per 53,000 juvenile age population). In fact, Gage County ranks rather high in this statistic statewide.

This writer sees a direct relationship between Gage County's reported juvenile adjudications and what might be termed an apparent "get-them-off-the-streets" commitment policy and the above cited statistics. In keeping with the general principles of rehabilitation and prevention, the diverting of youth from formal involvement with the courts has been articulated and promoted by several national commissions.

At present, the "Nebraska Youth Services Study" revealed that diversion (intensive preventive counseling and programming by a probation officer) occurs in fewer than 10% of Nebraska's counties. Given the recent facts regarding Gage County's rather primitive methods of dealing with juveniles and probation officers trying to rehabilitate these juveniles, this writer would assume that Gage County is not included in that statistic.

As was so aptly stated by the study: "Nebraska is a nice place to grow up . . . UNLESS you are a child or youth in need of services."

Do They Know Something?

Lincoln, Neb.
I have one question. If nuclear power plants are so safe, how come Lloyd's of London won't insure them and neither will any of the other private insurance firms in the country?

With a potential liability of $17 billion from one major accident, only $560 million is covered by law. Of this amount the power companies pay for only $110 million (20%), and the taxpayer pays for $450 million (80%). In other words, we pay the insurance premiums for private companies. In addition, virtually no home-owner policies cover damage from nuclear accidents.

ABP Account Shuffling Going On For Months?

Omaha (UPI) — An American Beef Packers Inc. practice of temporarily siphoning funds destined for its largest creditor may have been going on months before ABP declared limited bankruptcy Jan. 7.

UPI learned that General Electric Credit Corp., Stamford, Conn., received a "tip" in mid-December about the funding diversion and, following an investigation, confronted ABP officials who admitted it was going on.

Two sources still involved in the business and legal proceedings between GECC and ABP said the discovery of the diversion by GECC auditors made the relationship between the two corporations "very difficult."

At Least Mid-1974

ABP Vice President-Finance Tom Clark acknowledged during testimony in U.S. Bankruptcy Court here Wednesday that he learned of the diversion practice shortly after arriving at American Beef from an Omaha public accounting firm in mid-1974.

When asked if this was a violation of the financial agreement between the two, Clark replied "Yes," but said he didn't know who initiated the diversion practice or how long it had been in effect.

ABP and GECC had agreed that ABP receivables would be mailed by ABP creditors to various GECC lockboxes located in various cities, and then forwarded to GECC for processing.

GECC then forwarded 90% of the receivables collected back to ABP. However, ABP set up its own system whereby the creditors payments it received went into an account at Northwestern National Bank in Omaha.

The practice thus enabled ABP to use millions of dollars interest free for operational and other costs for at least a week before ABP transferred the funds to GECC where they belonged.

30-Day Delay

The way the agreement was set up, UPI learned, GECC couldn't have discovered any account discrepancies until 30 days had elapsed. By that time, ABP had "repaid" the so-called overdue accounts back to GECC and was starting over again on the new accounts.

Because of the pressing matters between the two corporations, GECC auditors have been unable to completely review ABP's books. But it was learned it has been determined the diversion of the funds could have been going on, as one source put it, "back into March or April."

Don Murphy, Northwestern National Bank president, told UPI that ABP has had two accounts — one general and one payroll — at the bank.

Murphy said there was no special account established to handle the funds, which he theorized went into ABP's general account. He said the general account was established soon after the corporation was formed in 1967.

When asked if there had been any audits at the bank since ABP declared bankruptcy, Murphy declined specific comment other than to say, "There haven't been any routine audits, no."

Reading Tables Made From Spools

Milford — Sixth graders in Mrs. Ken Jans' and Mrs. Stanley Farlin's classes at the Milford elementary school will have special cause to be proud of the new school they will move into six weeks from now. Helped by their teachers, some parents, Principal Roger Huss and volunteer "table tutor" Mrs. Gladys Heim, the kids fashioned 15 reading tables for the new school Friday out of donated electric cable spools and carpet scraps. Each class in the new school will get one, as will the library, said Mrs. Farlin. Here Robyn Welsh (left) and Karen Heckman tack carpet into place with the help of Robyn's mother, Mrs. Bob Welsh. (Star Photo)

Reagan Defends Free Enterprise

By JOEL THORSON

Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Grand Island — "Will the free marketplace survive or will we all descend to the deadly dullness of the socialist ante?"

Ronald Reagan, former two-term California governor, conservative spokesman and possible presidential candidate posed the question to guests of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet Friday night.

Enthusiastic applause from an audience including Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., and Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., greeted the answers Reagan offered in response to his own question.

Big government and big deficits, not big business, are the true causes of the nation's economic problems, Reagan said. Free enterprise itself is "the most effective weapon we have" in fighting attacks on business, he said.

Reagan supported a newly devised stock-sharing plan by which corporate stock would be offered to employees through a trust as an incentive for efficiency. He also advocated passage of the national dividend plan, which would distribute corporate income taxes pro rata among the American people.

"We can all have a bigger share of the pie," Reagan declared to loud applause, "if the government will get the hell out and let the private sector build a bigger pie."

Which inflation a problem "threatens our very social order," Reagan said, "there is one and only one cure for inflation and that is a balanced budget."

Named chamber president for 1975, succeeding Bob Schuette, was Sam Huston. Awarded "Partners in Progress" awards for contributing to Grand Island's progress, were the Stuhls Museum, the new Edith Abbott Memorial Library and the Golden Age Village.

Obscenity Bill Said Needing Amendment

By The Associated Press
Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas issued an opinion Friday saying the Legislature can outlaw material as obscene only if it "goes substantially beyond customary limits of candor."

Douglas commented on a legislative bill introduced by Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich. The bill would have removed that language.

The original draft of the Goodrich bill, LB77, would have defined obscenity as anything that appeared to the average man to be of prurient interest.

The bill is scheduled to come up on the floor of the Legislature Tuesday. Goodrich has agreed to rewrite the bill to comply with the attorney general's opinion requested by Neligh Sen. John DeCamp.

The bill was requested by Omaha City Prosecutor Gary Buccino. Douglas said the bill would have to be amended to comply with rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court.

However, Douglas said the "substantially beyond customary limits" test could be removed from the legal definition of obscenity if it were added to the jury instructions.

Dreary, Cold Weather Blankets All Of Nebraska

Dreary, cold weather covered the entire state Friday, after a day of balmy temperatures in the Panhandle and frigid readings elsewhere.

Occasional light freezing drizzle and light snow fell over the south central and the southeast as a stationary front cut across the southwestern Panhandle, running from northwest to southeast.

Areas of fog were common over most of Nebraska during the day.

Temperatures Friday ranged from a high of 41 degrees at Sidney to a low of 10 at Grand Island. Lincoln's high was 20 with a low of 13.

Cloudy weather is expected to continue through Sunday for the entire state with a chance for occasional light snow in the east and central through Saturday night. Highs Saturday will reach the upper 20s in the southwest.

Slightly warmer weather, into the lower 30s, is predicted for the west and south Sunday.

An extended forecast for Nebraska indicates the weather pattern will remain much the same, cloudy with occasional snow, through Wednesday.

Meanwhile, a climatic summary issued Friday of Nebraska's January weather reveals temperatures averaged 1 to 5 degrees above normal over all of the state except in the extreme northwest, the northeast, and the Lincoln-Omaha area where averages were slightly below normal.

Temperatures ranged from a high of 69 degrees at Benkelman

Jan. 20 to 16 degrees below zero at North Loup Jan. 11.

Total snowfall during January varied greatly across the state, running from 2 to 6 inches in the Panhandle to 10 to 25 inches in the eastern third of the state.

Omaha's total snowfall for January reached 22.7 inches, the third highest amount for the month there since snowfall records began in 1885.

The Jan. 10 blizzard roaring through the eastern part of the state brought up to 15 inches of snow at Weeping Water and a depth of 12 inches at Omaha, Lyons, Emerald and Wymore. At least 14 persons died in Nebraska from storm-related causes during the blizzard, the report stated.

State Jobless Rate Hits 5.8%

Statewide unemployment jumped to 5.8% in January, Labor Commissioner Jerry Chizek said Friday.

Benefits totaling $4.9 million were paid to 39,936 people in January, Chizek said.

In Lincoln, 4,271 people (or 5.6% of the city's work force) were jobless, up from 3,378 unemployed in December.

Chizek said Lincoln's figure was the highest on record since 1960 when the Labor Department first began to separate Lincoln's figures from the statewide totals.

Lincoln unemployment in January was due to lay-offs by mail advertising businesses, veterinary suppliers, golf cart manufacturers, carpet mills, circuit-breaker makers and packers.

Omaha in January registered a 7.1% unemployment rate — the highest rate for that city since 1950 when the department first began to keep records.

The statewide unemployment peak since 1950 occurred in February 1954 when 6.7% of the work force was jobless.

Junior Lawman Program Slated For June 9-13

The Eighth Annual Junior Lawmen program, sponsored by the American Legion, is scheduled for June 9-13 at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Center at the Lincoln Air Park, according to Legion Commander Charles Singleton.

Boys completing the eleventh grade can apply through American Legion post commanders. Three boys will be picked from each of 15 state districts.

Classroom studies, tours, field activities and breakfast calisthenics are part of the in-residence program.

Field activities include marksmanship, radar operation and maximum performance driving. Classes will study motor vehicle laws, human relations, safety and first aid.

UNL Marks Charter Day

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln celebrated its 106th Charter Day Friday by presenting service awards to more than 500 employees.

Chancellor James H. Zumberge hosted recognition programs for university faculty and staff celebrating the 5th, 10th, 15th, 20th, 25th, 30th or 35th anniversary of their employment.

Jury Acquits Omaha Youth

Omaha (AP) — A Douglas County District Court jury Friday acquitted a 17-year-old Omaha youth of murder.

He is Ernest Lee Thomas who was acquitted by a jury of three men and three women.

Thomas was charged with first degree murder in the commission of a robbery.

He and another youth had been, accused of robbing and fatally beating Anthony Palmisano, 78, in a downtown Omaha alley last July.

Valentine's Valentine Volume Slips

Valentine (AP) — It was just another day Friday for Postmaster Douglas Hammon and his two-person staff at Valentine's post office.

But, Hammon noted that lovers, collectors and curious seekers had not neglected to forward valentines to this north central Nebraska community for dispatch with a multi-colored cancellation and postmark provided by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Hammon said the Post Office had received about 5,000 valentines over the last three weeks to be postmarked and remailed. Surprisingly though, he said that volume represented a marked decline from his earlier days as postmaster here in the late 1940's and early 1950's.

Then, Hammon said, the post office handled 15,000-20,000 cards each year. Asked about the decline, Hammon commented "Now it is a little expensive" with the 10-cent stamps and more expensive valentines.

Does the flow of valentines from every state in the union provide a problem for Hammon and his staff?

"Not really," replied the genial postmaster.

Omaha Up To Its Ears In Snow Removal Costs

Omaha (AP) — The City of Omaha is in a budgetary snow-drift nearly four times deeper than last year on this date.

The city has spent $610,878 for snow removal so far in 1975. That compares with $166,823 a year ago.

Officials said the Jan. 10 blizzard accounts for about 95% of this year's cost.

Public Works Director Terry Pesek had estimated during the height of the storm that the blizzard could cost the city $1 million

City Finance Director George Richardson estimated the damage claims could be about $20,000. No estimate was available on the other costs.

Pesek said damage to curbs and sidewalks appears to be sizable.

The 1975 budget contains $951,000 for snow removal.

The $610,878 doesn't include damage claims against the city by private citizens, salt and sand costs or damage by snow removal equipment to streets, curbs and other city property.

Tax Hike Asked For 'Lean' Budget

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Friday called for a retroactive state income tax increase to meet his "lean" $712.2 million operating budget proposal for fiscal 1975-76.

Exon also proposed a $12.4 million capital construction budget for the upcoming year which envisions little new construction.

In the current fiscal year ending June 30, budget analysts say the state will spend $685 million in state, federal and cash revenue for general operations. That includes $301 million in state tax revenue and a $19 million capital construction program.

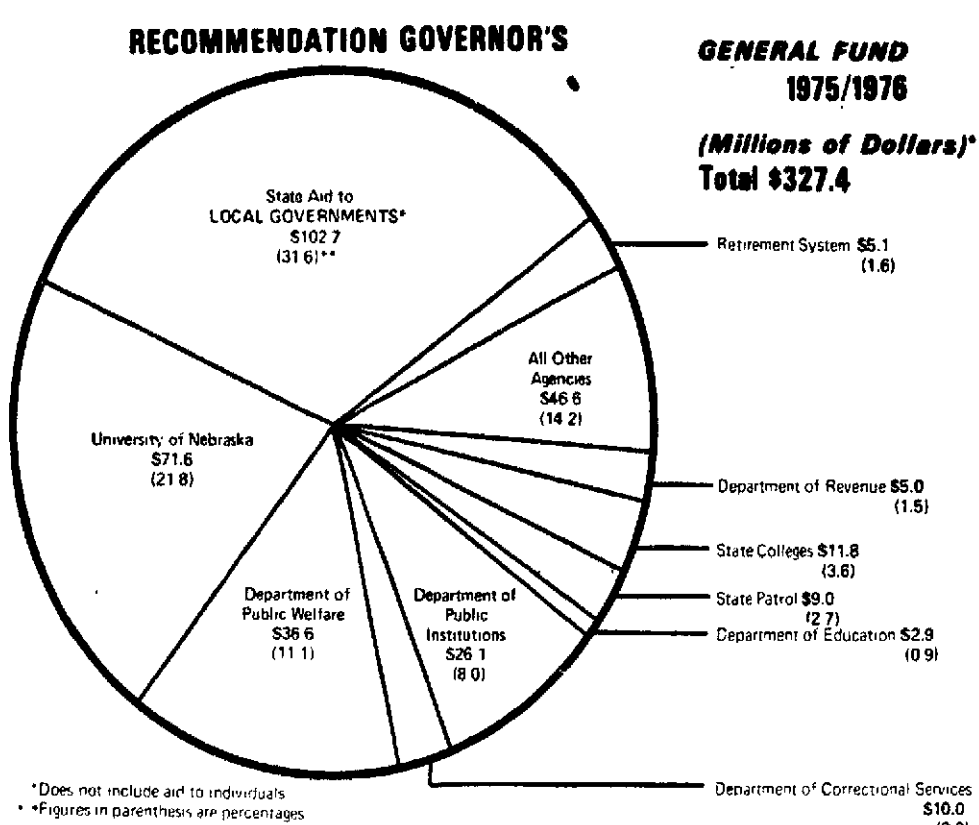

But, Exon said the state individual income tax needs to be hiked from 10% to 13% to generate the $331 million his budget requires.

'Lagging Growth' Cited

He told legislators in his annual budget address that lagging growth in the state's economy compounded by inflation has forced him to seek the tax hike retroactive to Jan. 1 "in order to assure the state's solvency."

The hike in the individual income tax would force the state's corporate income tax to jump from 2½% to 3.7%. (The corporate income tax is always one-fourth of the individual tax.)

Referring to recent tax cuts made over his objections, Exon said, "I have many times cautioned against 'political' tax tinkering and a yo-yo approach to the state's balances and legitimate needs."

Exon said during a press briefing that he tried but could not hammer together a budget using current tax rates without sacrificing needed services.

$36 Million Cut
Exon said he pruned $36.6 million in general funds requested by state agencies.

In presenting the budget, his fifth, Exon cautioned legislators: "There is little or no room for any new and increased spending proposals introduced and being considered by the Legislature."

Exon's budget, however, does call for a $1.6 million increase in Aid to Dependent Children payments. The increase would hike monthly ADC payment for a family of two from $175 to $210 per month.

Exon said the increase is needed to offset inflation.

The budget would also expand penal reform by $2.5 million in federal and $300,000 in state funding. The funds would be used for four pilot community corrections projects and for additional rehabilitation programs in the prisons.

State employees would each receive a 5% plus $468 raise under the Exon budget. Exon said such raises will mean "significant increases, especially for the lower and middle income employees."

Salaries will account for 52% of the money spent by the state in fiscal 1975-76. The figure has been 48% in the past.

For the state's institutions, an additional $2.7 million is being asked to meet unexpected increases in numbers of patients being admitted to the three state regional centers.

The budget would also merge the Department of Institution (DPI) alcoholism division with the Nebraska Commission on Drugs to form a chemical dependency section under DPI's medical services division.

For the University of Nebraska system (at Lincoln and Omaha) and the four state colleges (Peru, Wayne, Kearney and Chadron), Exon asked for an 11.4% increase in state tax support over previous years.

Lump Sums Proposed

Although the increase for NU was $8 million less than the $22 million (34%) increase requested, Exon recommended that the University and the colleges' appropriations be lump sum without any earmarking.

"Since the University operations budget will be considered 'tight' by their officials, I suggest allowing the elected Regents and (the administrators) to set their own funding priorities," Exon said.

To meet court objections to the present funding system for the state technical colleges, Exon recommended that the Legislature return them to complete local control. The state, which was faced with either taking complete financial and administrative control or returning the reins to the six local boards, would provide limited state aid to the schools.

Last summer the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled the technical college's system of financing illegal because it was state-controlled but levied a one mill property tax. The state constitution says the state cannot levy a property tax

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Saturday

Capricorn appreciates proverbial "ray of light" more than do most persons. This is because the native often is involved in gloomy and pessimistic situations and welcomes a respite. Crises and Capricorn seem to go together — the individual overcomes odds, obstacles and usually waits until later years for genuine vindication or ultimate success. Making Capricorn laugh may be akin to an act of humanity!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Values, vital points may be under pressure. However, cycle continues high — and you will land on your feet. Means some may attempt to undermine you. Be prepared. Ride with tide. Have faith in your own judgments and selections. You'll understand!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Indecision could plague you. Key is to be analytical. Once you have synthesized information at hand, make a commitment. What is "off screen," behind the scenes, will favor your efforts. Hospital or special organization could range in your personal picture. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends become involved in disputes. You are called upon to play the role of peacemaker. Be diplomatic without becoming inextricably involved. Taurus, Libra and Scorpio could play part now. Roles, get lines of duty, authority clearly defined.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you insist on creating friction, you'll pay the price. Key is to be selective, to time your moves, to avoid situations which drain the money, energy, time, and spirit. Ride with tide. Have faith in your own judgments and selections. You'll understand!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your ability to communicate might be hampered by sensitive money, energy, time, and spirit. Ride with tide. Have faith in your own judgments and selections. You'll understand!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money position should be negotiated. Take nothing for granted. Finish what you start. Deal gingerly with aggressive Aries. Some friends, interested in specific business deal or organization, may not be providing a clear picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Marital logic or partnership questions arise. Don't attempt to be your own lawyer. Listen and learn. New approach is now a necessity. Persons with hair and style are drawn to you. Don't kick toe in sand. Stand up and be counted and tout your talents in nice way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Intuition plays key role. You sense what you should do. Key is to initiate action, to be a self-starter, to get ball rolling. Accent now is on secrets, work procedures, basic health and income requirements. Aquarius is likely to be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Highlight flexibility. Find creative outlet for restlessness. Love may be a rough road — temporarily. Means there are differences which become evident. Changes are in order, maybe even a change of scenery.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Roadblocks could become "building blocks." Know it and respond accordingly. Means accept challenge in constructive manner. Older persons want to share their experiences. Key is to be aware of subtle nuances, to acquire knowledge in a practical way. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio are involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold off on decisions regarding neighbors, relatives. Stay out of "heavy traffic" if possible. Sleer clear of disputes based on whim and ego. Aggressive individual attempts to spread rumors — and you could be prime target. Protect yourself in clinches!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Money conditions are not what they appear on surface. Get something besides promise, something solid for your efforts. Cash flow is important, more so than in recent past. Luxury item could come your way — as a gift.

TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are artistic, sensitive, have sweet tooth and unusual voice. You may change residence or lifestyle in March. Taurus, Libra persons play significant roles in your life. May should be your most productive month of 1975.

moved our things in the trailer, hitched it to the car and started seeing the country. We thought we were so old we'd better hurry, so we went at a lightning pace at first, whizzing through Oregon, Colorado, Wyoming and on to Virginia and Pennsylvania.

"Since then we've found out we're not so old after all, and there's no need to rush, so we have taken an easier pace for the rest of the almost 100,000 miles we've pulled the trailer around the country."

"My doctors tell me I've got a good constitution, but they admit a lot of the credit is due to the open-air life we lead and the stimulating variety of things we do and see now that we're trailer nomads."

"One sure thing is that I'm not bored, which I might be if I'd stayed tucked away there in Grand Forks, wondering what to do with myself each day. But when you've got a home on wheels you just hop aboard and go someplace new whenever boredom starts creeping in."

Mr. Knapp's story was interesting enough then, but read on and learn what has happened to him since 1967, when he was only 83.

His wife and traveling companion died in 1970, when she was 83. By then they had driven over 150,000 miles in their trailer travels. In 1971 Newell Knapp married again (he was 87 that year), and he and his "bride" are now making plans to go to The National (trailer owners') Rally at Brandon, Manitoba, later this year. (If you've been doing your arithmetic, you'll realize that he will be 91 in 1975!)

Another couple I know began summertime trailer travel before he retired from his business in New York. Each year the Eatons took off from New Canaan, Conn., sightseeing new areas, and always ending up for a week or two with their son on the West Coast before they returned home.

As time went on they found that they used the trailer for short jaunts near home. When retirement time came, they drove their trailer to Longboat Key, Sarasota, Fla., where they set it up in a more or less permanent "winter quarters."

Each summer after that, they traveled west in a smaller, camper-type trailer which they found easier to pull behind their car especially through the mountains of whose scenery they were both so fond.

Like Mr. Knapp, the Eatons found pleasure and excitement from the infinite variety of places they went to and people they met during their trailer trips. Of course, they were also like him in their genuine enjoyment of driving and/or riding in a car, and they were good enough at the driving skills required to maneuver a trailer to cope with that demanding aspect of "trailerling" without strain.

Varner Says:

NU Programs 'Would Be Cut'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

If Gov. J. James Exon's $76.6 million budget recommendation for the University of Nebraska system stands, NU President D. B. Varner said Friday "some programs will have to be reduced."

"I'm fully aware," Varner said, that Exon and the Legislature "face some difficult fiscal problems this year," from which NU "is not immune."

But Varner said state officials must "think seriously what's necessary to serve the interests of the state most effectively, in terms of long-range responsibilities."

"It's my opinion there is not enough money to allow us to continue our existing programs."

'Size Of Cut Disappointing'
Varner said it was "not a surprise" that Exon cut the NU appropriations request of $84.4 million. But "understandably, I'm disappointed in the degree of the cut that was made."

The slashed general fund proposal would not permit NU to meet needed salary increases, increased costs of purchase items because of inflation, utilities and maintenance of new buildings ready for use, and mandatory Social Security payment increases next year, he said.

And, that "says nothing of ag research and extension, to expand efforts in the field of rural health, and to continue the program of developing specific areas of excellence," he noted.

"Something will have to give," Varner said, but "We really won't know the impact until we get much more budget detail."

Lump Sum 'Workable'
Regarding Exon's recommendation of lump sum funding for NU, with spending priorities to be set by the NU Board of Regents, Varner said, "I think it's quite workable."

If the Legislature approves, he said, "We feel this is a reasonable way to deal with the appropriations, to give us maximum flexibility to respond to the most pressing needs" in the tightening fiscal picture.

The Unicameral's budget committee chairman Sen. Richard Marvel said Friday the lump sum grant might be illegal.

Lincoln Regent Ed Schwartzkopf said "I appreciate" the governor's lump sum proposal, "and I would like to see them (senators) remove the line-by-line budgeting where we can really set up priorities and identify areas of excellence and move ahead."

But regarding the budget cut, Schwartzkopf said, "I don't think the governor understands the great contribution this university makes" to Nebraska and beyond, in research, for example.

'Chance To Improve'
"Saying that Nebraska doesn't 'reflect the doom and gloom' of the national economy, NU has a 'chance to improve the quality of instruction' toward greater national excellence while other institutions are retreating."

But "We've always lived with it (cuts and that's hurt us)," Schwartzkopf said.

"I had hoped he (Exon) would recommend enough to let us get started on the plant science building," the Lincoln campus No. 1 priority, Varner said, calling the building "vital to the agriculture industry." Exon recommended only $20,000 to begin planning.

Varner also expressed disappointment about the dollar denial for the University of Nebraska at Omaha health and physical education building

Capital Construction Plan Said 'Conservative'

Gov. J. James Exon Friday presented the Legislature with an "extremely conservative" capital construction budget for 1975-76 totaling $12.4 million.

A total of $51 million in capital construction projects had been requested, and Exon at one time indicated he was considering a freeze on all new capital construction.

However, his budget, which includes $4.1 million in state tax revenue, sets an out-patient clinic, called an ambulatory, at the University of Nebraska Medical Center as the number one priority.

The 100,000 square-foot project will cost a total of $8 million when completed. The governor recommended that in fiscal 1975-76, $1.1 million state money and $2.2 million in federal funds be used to start construction.

"The funding of this building will directly increase the number of physicians being trained to practice medicine in Nebraska," Exon said.

Exon also recommended $10,000 to study the need for an additional campus for the University of Nebraska-Omaha. UNO is located about five miles from the downtown area and wants to put a campus in that section.

Planning money was also recommended for a plant science building at the Lincoln campus.

At the Men's Reformatory in Lincoln, Exon recommended appropriation of $637,200 to begin preparation for the construction of a new $9.7 million complex. When completed, the structure will be able to house 300 inmates.

Exon also budgeted $5.8 million for remodeling of the State Penitentiary's maximum security unit and $1.7 million for the trusty dormitory for the following year.

However, Exon did recommend that the Legislature defer

$2.7 million already appropriated for the construction of a new physical education center at UNO until the economic picture improves.

He also asked the Legislature to rescind a $960,000 appropriation for the lease-purchase of a new State Office Building in Omaha.

"This surely can wait as we struggle with priorities," Exon said.

Technical Colleges Watching For Specifics Of Tax Change

In proposing a local property tax to support Nebraska's technical community colleges, the Exon administration has "tried to get around the constitutional question as best they can," Robert Schleiger said Friday.

The executive director of the State Board of Technical Community Colleges suggested that, considering Exon's $11.8 million general fund recommendation, the college system will have to rely heavily on property taxes.

The one-mill property tax to fund part of the community college operations was ruled unconstitutional last summer.

Schleiger said, "We'll have to see what legislation is developed to allow a local property tax and to what extent." The state board had requested $26.4 million for fiscal 1975-76, which the legislative fiscal analysts chopped by one-fourth, to $18.9 million. Exon slashed another fourth.

That Exon would support local control through reinstating the property tax "was no surprise," Schleiger said. But Exon's imprecise recommendation on implementing it leaves the community colleges with "only part of the total picture."

Robert S. Eichler, area president of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech), agreed that Exon has "always emphasized some local control for us."

But after the administration proposal, "I'm not sure what the implication is," Eichler said. SeTech, one of six community college areas, won a $6.5 million state board budget recommendation He said he's unsure where cuts will be made.

The community college system budget proposal would base state aid "on some kind of formula of production," Eichler said, "rather than any figure that's just set by legislation."

He said, "I think it's very acceptable" to award funding based on the number of full-time equivalent students. "It would force us to be accountable" for spending.

Regarding the local property tax, Eichler said, "I'm hopeful for us to do some construction with a portion of that." A total of two mills reportedly is being considered.

The SeTech Area Board has proposed building a new $6.7 million Lincoln campus, but has no funds for it.

4 J St. Blocks To Get Facelift

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The four-block stretch on J St. between the State Capitol and the County-City Building is scheduled to get a major facelift this spring.

The new look will feature installation of ornamental lighting fixtures, construction of a 16-foot-wide grassed median and repaving the street itself.

The plan is one of the Downtown Advisory Committee's (DAC) pet projects and has been headed up by the J St. Task Force.

Task Force Chairman Selmer Solheim

said Friday that 75% of the property owners along J St. have signed petitions asking the City Council to create an improvement district there. Solheim said he expects a few more landowners to sign up next week.

Work on the project, which is expected to receive council blessing, would begin in April.

If the city and county help pay for improvements at 10th and J, Solheim said the cost to property owners would be $32 per front foot. Without any governmental financial aid, the bill would total $40 per front foot.

In other action, DAC recommended council approval of the National Bank of Commerce's request to bury steam lines under O St. to provide heat to Miller & Paine. The bank also will provide steam heat to Hovland-Swanson and the Rampark garage.

DAC asked bank and Miller & Paine officials to consider building an underground pedestrian tunnel to connect the two blocks. Bank architects have nixed the idea of building second level skywalks connecting the new bank building under construction to adjacent blocks.

PURE For More Energy Research

A citizens group concerned about nuclear power has formed an organization to encourage the use of alternative sources of energy.

The organization is called People United for Responsible Energy, or PURE.

Its first project is support for LB439, Sen. Steve Fowler's proposed moratorium on construction of nuclear energy facilities.

Building more nuclear plants in Nebraska "endangers the lives of Nebraska citizens, wastes taxpayers' and consumers' money and provides an inefficient source of energy," PURE spokesperson Mary Rogge said.

PURE suggests research and development of alternatives such as solar power, wind power, geothermal power and clean fossil fuels.

Citibank Lawsuit Claims Property

The Citibank and Trust Co. of Lincoln, in a suit filed in Lancaster County District Court, is asking for the return of five tracts of land which it claims were illegally conveyed to the First National Bank of Omaha.

The suit has been filed against the First National Bank of Omaha, Ferguson Land and Investment Co. Inc., Kenneth L. Ferguson and Eldorus F. Ferguson.

According to the suit, Kenneth Ferguson executed a $63,000 collateral note with Citibank and Trust April 24, 1974, using all the outstanding shares of Ferguson Land and Investment Co. as security.

The money was then used for the operation of the land and investment company business, according to the suit.

In August 1974 Ferguson mortgaged virtually all the assets of the land and investment company (five tracts of land in Lancaster County) to First National Bank of Omaha. The mortgage took place without the knowledge or consent of the plaintiff, the suit contends.

When the debt became due, Ferguson delivered a deed and conveyed these assets to the Omaha bank on Jan. 10, 1975, again without the knowledge or consent of Citibank and Trust, according to the suit.

This conveyance was "intended as a scheme and device to defraud the plaintiff and to dissipate all of the assets of the defendant corporation," the suit states.

Citibank and Trust is asking the court to declare the deed held by the Omaha bank null and void, and to find that the mortgage was not authorized and is thus not valid.

The plaintiff is also asking that the court find Citibank and Trust holders of all the investment company's stock and thereby owners of the land.

Grand Jury Sought

Lincoln mayoral candidate Jo Bragg called Friday for the convening of a grand jury to investigate the procedures used in the handling of the shooting death of Elijah C. Childers Jr.

Childers was killed by police officers Feb. 1 when he attacked a police officer with a knife. A six-man coroner's jury ruled the death was a justifiable homicide.

Ms. Bragg called the report a "whitewash."

The circumstances surrounding his death were not adequately investigated and the action by the police was not justified," she contended.

Ms. Bragg asked District Judge Samuel Van Pelt to urge other judges to convene the grand jury investigation and to appoint an outside prosecutor.

Kurtenbach Will Run For Council

Ron Kurtenbach, a founder and coeditor of the Lincoln Gazette, has announced his intention to run for the Lincoln City Council. His announcement in the Wednesday editions of the alternative newspaper included a lengthy statement of purpose.

Kurtenbach said he would formally file for the council race in the near future.

THE STEPS OF LENT

Between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday there are forty days? No, that's not quite right.

Between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday there are forty weekdays—and six Sundays. Traditionally the weekdays were the Lenten fast, the Sundays were festivals of Christian worship.

If your faith has taught you to observe Lent: by foregoing pleasures or adding new religious experiences or both... those Six Sundays are occasions for taking inventory of your spiritual progress.

If yours is a religious background that does not emphasize Lent, those Six Sundays are still milestones on the way to the great Christian celebration of Christ's Resurrection—Easter!

And if, perchance, you have never given much attention to spiritual matters, those Six Sundays (and the thoughtful days between) are an invitation from your Lord... to walk with Him the path He walked for You.

Rapist-Robber Ordered Sent To Penal Complex

Joseph Sanchell, a Lincoln man convicted of the 1972 rape-robbery of a University of Nebraska coed and the robbery of two others, has been ordered committed to the Nebraska Penal Complex by Lancaster District Court Judge Herbert Romm.

Sanchell was convicted by a District Court jury in 1973 on four charges, and was sentenced to a total of 8 to 13 years in prison.

The Nebraska Supreme Court.

in a 5-2 decision, denied a new trial on the grounds that Sanchell's constitutional rights were violated when he was denied counsel at a police lineup.

One victim based her identification of Sanchell on the voice she heard the night of Jan. 22, 1972.

The Supreme Court held that "a voice identification is enough to support a conviction."

Romm ordered that the three robbery sentences be served concurrently, but that the 3 to 5-year robbery sentence be served consecutively to the rape sentence.

Counterfeit Bills Charge Denied By Lincoln Man

A man charged with possessing more than $27,500 in counterfeit $20 bills has pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court.

No trial date has been set for Eugene Paul Oziah, 40, 6434 Y, who is being held at the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Oziah was arrested Dec. 19 at Eppley Airfield in Omaha by U.S. Secret Service agents. He was indicted by an Omaha grand jury on two counts of possessing forged and counterfeit currency.

Chambers Likens Bar To Illegal 'Closed Shop'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha Friday said compulsory membership in the bar association represents a "closed shop" for lawyers, an arrangement which would be unconstitutional for labor organizations in Nebraska.

In order to attempt to break up that "coercive" machinery, Chambers said, the people of Nebraska should be allowed to vote on a proposed constitutional amendment stating that attorneys shall not be required to belong to the bar in order to practice law in the state.

That proposal is contained in LB429, a bill which Chambers presented to the Legislature's Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee.

Held By Committee
Bar association spokesmen opposed the measure, and it was held for later committee action.

Its enactment could result in damage to an association which now functions for the benefit of the public, Nebraska Bar Association President Bernard Smith of Lexington said.

Chambers said he must follow the constitutional avenue in attempting to allow voluntary membership in the bar because "it is the unyielding position of the judiciary that only they have authority to regulate the practice of law."

Nebraska lawyers have been required to join the bar in order to practice law since a 1937 directive of the State Supreme Court mandated it, Chambers said.

But attorneys should be allowed to join the bar only if they wish, he said. Some do not want to because "the bar does nothing that is worthwhile," he said.

Support From Attorney
Lincoln attorney Lawrence Murphy supported the bill, noting that he objects to the use of part of his $85 in annual dues for "political purposes," namely legislative lobbying activities.

Smith said the practice of law in the public interest is "best advanced by everyone participating in the bar."

Thirty-one states require membership, he said.

A "unified" bar "makes discipline (of lawyers) more manageable and efficient," Glenn Winters of Evanston, Ill., the former director of the American Judicature Society, told the committee.

'Best Interests'
Former State Sen. Blair Richendier of Walthill said he is convinced that "an integrated bar serves the best interests of the public."

Richendier headed a legislative subcommittee which studied an earlier Chambers proposal last year.

That 1974 Chambers effort led to a Supreme Court rule instituting procedural due process changes in the way the bar examination is administered to prospective lawyers.

Marvel Calls For Delay Until Confusion Resolved

By The Associated Press

Sen. Richard Marvel warned his Unicameral colleagues in harsh language Friday to avoid passing any more costly measures, especially those dealing with education for the handicapped.

"until we put some sense into the law and until the Department of Education puts some sense into the rules and regulations."

The Hastings legislator who chairs the Appropriations Committee urged his colleagues to hold back action on LB148, a measure offered by Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich which would take qualifying language out of the definition of handicapped children who are entitled to free transportation in connection with their schooling. It carries a price tag of about $518,000.

"All it does is open up the language of LB403," Marvel said, referring to the controversial-plagued bill providing state funds for educating handicapped children.

"The Department of Education has failed to process rules and regulations that make sense," Marvel said. "I don't think this Legislature at the moment has any right in fairness . . . to pass any more legislation that opens it up any more than it is now."

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis, chairman of the Education Committee, moved to bracket the bill, telling the senators "We've got an unbelievable mess on our hands."

"This probably is the worst problem we've got in this session," Lewis said.

Goodrich succeeded in having the motion to delay the bill defeated, and amendments which he wanted were adopted. Goodrich then asked the Legislature to bracket the bill, and it was laid over indefinitely on a 33-1 vote.

Goodrich said his bill dealt with transportation alone and "this is incidental to the problem, not the problem itself."

Goodrich and Gothenburg Sen. Herb Dues said a major part of the problem was failure by the Department of Administrative Services to process rules and regulations for school districts to get funds under LB403.

Lewis said the second payment made under LB403 recently was "all fouled up."

Bill On Office Space Leasing Heard And Held By Committee

By The Associated Press

An Exon administration bill on leasing office space for the state was described Friday as a way to provide public accountability without being too restrictive.

Axtell Sen. Gary Anderson's LB205, which was introduced for Gov. J. James Exon, was given a public hearing in the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee, but action on the measure was delayed until a future date.

Ralston Sen. Gerald Koch, vice chairman of the panel, asked Anderson why the bill provides for bids through public notice but doesn't mandate a bidding process.

"If they're (state agencies) tied down too much, they're going to go out and write the specs (specifications for space) to only one place in town anyway," Anderson said.

After the hearing, Anderson and Stan Matzke, head of the State Department of Administrative Services, said opening the process is of paramount importance.

"It provides flexibility and openness, openness in the sense that it's public," Matzke said. Don Nelson, Matzke's deputy, backed the bill in the committee hearing.

Gothenburg Sen. Herb Dues indicated he would like DAS procedures that are provided for in the bill to have a public review, and he like regulations. The bill requires public notice when office space is available so businesses can bid for a state lease and it provides for the internal DAS procedures to administer the proposed law.

It stems from the controversial lease of a building from the Jado Corp. of Omaha. The administration was criticized by some lawmakers last year when details of the lease for Labor Department offices became known.

One Jado partner is a former Exon campaign worker, but the governor denied that fact had anything to do with the lease.

The committee heard and held two other bills dealing with contracts. They were introduced by Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel as LB307 and LB467.

Pesticide Control Bill Sent Back
The Legislature's Agriculture Committee decided Friday to send back to the drafting boards a proposed pesticide control act.

In addition, the committee indicated it wouldn't be a bad idea to schedule another hearing on its own LB332 as soon as a new version can be put together.

The situation was created by numerous amendments to the bill turned over to the committee during the hearing.

"We don't want to send to the floor a monstrosity even if it's the 11th hour," said Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, committee chairman, in agreeing with the decision to redraft and possibly hold another hearing on LB332.

The states are under federal mandate to come up with a pesticide control plan geared specifically at insuring the safe use of pesticides designated as being restricted by this fall.

The federal government then has a year to approve or reject those plans after which those states without them would be in a position of having restricted-use pesticides banned until an acceptable plan has been devised.

Interest Rate Drop Helps Boost Stocks

New York (AP) — The stock market got a push from falling interest rates and signs of slackening inflation Friday and climbed again in continued active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 7.38 to 734.20, its highest close since last Aug. 15, when it finished at 737.88 midway through a steep slide that carried it down to 584.76 by early October.

New York Stock Exchange volume totaled 23.29 million shares, well short of Thursday's record-breaking 35.16 million total.

But as one broker put it Friday, "Eight weeks ago we would have thought 23 million was fantastic."

Advances outnumbered declines 805 to 648 among the 1,843 issues traded on the Big Board, and the exchange's composite index gained .21 to 43.21.

For most of the day it was a stop-and-go market, with the Dow slipping at the outset, bouncing back for a plus-six reading at noon, and then pulling back to show only a 2.51 gain with a half hour to go.

Analysts noted that the strong upswing that followed began as Federal Reserve moves in the money markets seemed to be signaling that the central bank was acting to encourage a further slide in interest rates.

They also said traders looking ahead to a three-day holiday weekend tended to do some last-minute buying for fear of being left behind should something happen between now and Tuesday's opening to spark a further market rise.

At the outset, the market had two favorable pieces of news to work with. The government reported that wholesale prices declined in January for the second month in a row.

And several large banks cut their prime rates — the basic charge on business loans — from 9 to 8 1/4 percent.

Less favorable, obviously, was the news of a widened U.S. balance of payments deficit for the fourth quarter of last year.

Alan R. Shaw at Harris, Upham & Co. said the market was going through just the reverse of its slide late last summer, when bearish investors seized on every inchoate rally as a chance to sell and thus killed off each upturn before it really got going.

Commodities Mixed, Lower
Chicago (AP) — Soybean futures declined 6 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday, but other commodities closed on generally irregular tones.

Trade was mixed on the opening and the close but in between, it was slow and largely one-sided, among local professionals. There appeared to be no outside reason for the lack of interest, but some trade sources thought the non-participants were marking time.

It was thought on the opening that a government report concerning the numbers of cattle on feed and another report of export commitments might indicate some trade moves.

FOOTBALL

Courtesy tickets to Oklahoma games were officially cut off for everyone except legislators, the congressional delegation and top state officials in a new policy adopted by the OU regents.

Green Bay Packers' coach Bart Starr said veteran assistant John "Red" Cochran has been named as midwest scout for the NFL team.

The Minnesota Vikings announced a dollar increase in ticket prices.

Alan Page, Vikings' all-pro tackle, will receive the NFC defensive player of the year award for the third time at the Feb. 21 dinner of the Kansas City 101 Committee.

Dave Lewis, quarterback and punter with the Cincinnati Bengals of the NFL for four years, signed a 1975 contract with the CFL Montreal Alouettes.

The Atlanta Falcons announced the signing of Brent Adams, Chattanooga offensive tackle.

Larry Satterfield, offensive tackle on Tennessee's 1974 team, signed a contract with the Oakland Raiders of the NFL.

Carl Marasco, a member of the NFL staff for the past two years, was named director of personnel for the Chicago Bears.

Gerald and Tom Whatley love the Denver Broncos so much they want to make T-shirts with the Bronco symbol on them. And they have gone to court get permission to do so.

The Whatleys filed a suit seeking $100,000 in damages from the NFL because they were denied the right last year of using the Bronco trademark on an orange shirt. The trademark would have been placed on a streamroller with the words "Mean Orange Machine." But, the NFL Properties, a subsidiary of the NFL, had already sold the rights to private firms — all 26 teams.

TRACK & FIELD

Byron Dyce, a familiar face to Cleveland fans, will seek his sixth consecutive victory in the Knights of Columbus indoor meet's 1,000.

Baylor coach Clyde Hart says standout intermediate hurdler Jimmy Gailey severely sprained an ankle this week and is doubtful for the Border Olympics Feb. 27-March 1 in Laredo, Tex.

Mike McFarland, Indiana sprinter who recently set a world record for the 70, has been added to the field for the National AAU indoor championships Feb. 28 at Madison Square Garden.

BASEBALL

Three pitchers, including veteran Tom Hall, signed 1975 contracts with the Cincinnati Reds.

The New York Yankees announced the signings of veteran utilityman Bob Oliver and infielder Fred Stanley.

The New York Mets announced that pitcher Mac Scarce and catcher Ron Hodges signed their 1975 contracts.

Infielder Dave Rosello of the Chicago Cubs has signed his 1975 contract.

Mike Cuellar, the only Baltimore Orioles player who filed for salary arbitration, agreed to a new contract with Frank Cashen.

Outfielder Gary Matthews of the San Francisco Giants signed his 1975 contract and received a "big raise".

HOCKEY

Chico Maki, who survived many a fray in a 13-year NHL career with Chicago, is to be treated for an injury he suffered above the eye during an old-timers game in Canada.

The Montreal Canadiens of the NHL called up forward Ron Andruff from their Nova Scotia team to replace high-scoring, injured right winger Guy Lafleur.

OTHER SPORTS

The Golden State Warriors of the NBA established what is believed to be a club record, by selling out all tickets for the Feb. 22 Boston Celtics home game nine days in advance.

Bob Ehlinger, former vice president and general manager of the Philadelphia A's, was named as assistant to the commissioner and director of public relations for the North American Soccer League.

Kuo Chia-Hsiung of Taiwan shot a five-under-par 67 to lead the $40,000 Philippine Open Golf Championships by one stroke.

Two Kentucky race tracks, claiming they were unjustly denied racing dates by the State Racing Commission, are appealing the commission's decision.

About 90 yachts are scheduled to sail in the Southern Ocean Triangle race to Miami.

Judge Robert Morgan of the U.S. District Court declared East Moline Downs bankrupt. He took the action after creditors failed to come up with an alternate reorganization plan and ordered bankruptcy court Judge Max Lipkin to proceed with liquidation.

The sports information staff at Hiram College believes it has extra-sensory perception.

A news release dated Thursday, Feb. 13, says their swimming team has a tough week coming up after the loss to Bethany Saturday, Feb. 15.

"The student who wrote the release believes that we're going to lose to Bethany Saturday," information director Lee Harrington said when questioned about the release. "I guess Bethany has a real good team and we don't expect to win."

"You shouldn't have gotten the release until Monday. I hope you don't hang me over this."

NU Women To Big 8

The Nebraska women swimmers are set to make their Big Eight Conference debut at Ames, Iowa this weekend for the Big Eight women's swimming and diving meet.

Lack of financial backing prevented the women from competing last year. "We weren't University funded for the Big Eight meet a year ago," said Pat Sullivan, swim coach.

The meet is a two-day affair with all events, except for diving, are timed finals, Sullivan said. The diving competition is divided into preliminaries, semifinals, and finals.

"I expect Iowa State to place first," Sullivan said. "We hope to end up third or fourth. Iowa State, Kansas State, and Kansas defeated us solidly during season competition so it will take top performance from every swimmer to place third."

Lack of depth will hurt the team she added. Only 12 women are on the team. Nebraska will not compete in the 400-meter freestyle or 400-meter medley relay.

Ginny Kincade, Nancy Dykes, and Ruth Spencer are expected to place well in the competition. "If Ginny can put out a top performance, I feel she can win both the diving events," Sullivan said. "Dykes should place high in diving also and Spencer is a strong candidate in the 50 and 100 breaststroke."

Oilers Lose Sid Gillman

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers General Manager Sid Gillman, who stepped down as head coach three weeks ago, also resigned as general manager Friday night, Oilers Owner K. S. "Bud" Adams said.

Adams said that O. A. "Bum" Phillips, who replaced Gillman as coach will assume the general manager's job with the Oilers.

Gillman is in California attending the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"Sid called me from California and we talked at length about the future of the Oilers," Adams said. "He said he felt the team had turned things around, the club was in good hands under Phillips and that he had done the job he came to do."

Unser Whips Foyt In 'Mad 100 Dash'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Unser whipped old adversary A. J. Foyt by inches Friday in winning a spine-tling final race in the $200,000 International Race of Champions series and taking $41,400 in nerve money.

This 100-mile mad dash was one of the closest and most exciting races run since motor sports began to appear in this country after World War II.

With nine world class drivers in Friday's final heat, it was exactly what the promoters had hoped and said it would be, a hair-raising, bumper-to-bumper, door handle-to-door handle display of nerve and talent.

"It was as wild as it looked," said Unser. "You had to steal every inch you could get."

Foyt, at 40 the same age as Unser, came across the finish line side-by-side with his old Indianapolis rival, but couldn't quite poke the nose of his car the extra inches needed for victory.

Third place, only a car length back, was Cale Yarborough, and it was only another car length to fourth-place Bobby Allison. David Pearson finished fifth and two-time world driving champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil was sixth.

Three other starters—George Follmer, 1974 Indianapolis winner Johnny Rutherford and international Grand Prix ace Ronnie Peterson of Sweden—were eliminated in spectacular crashes.

Foyt was paid $27,600 from the four-race, $200,000 prize fund, with $22,200 to Yarborough, $19,900 to Allison, $16,500 to Pearson, $18,300 to Fittipaldi, $12,300 to Peterson, $15,300 to Follmer and $9,900 to Rutherford.

"I'm happy with the money," said Unser, the 1969 Indy winner and 1974 national driving champion who averaged 167.516 miles per hour Friday. "But more than that, I'm happy to have survived."

Indeed, he was. The race had to be stopped twice to clean up wreckage left from a pair of crunching accidents that occurred as the closely bunched racers zipped down Daytona International Speedway's mile-long back straight at 180 m.p.h., a good 14 m.p.h. faster than the cars were built to go.

One of the accidents eliminated Follmer and Rutherford, only four laps into the race. Follmer apparently triggered it when his car touched the second turn wall, then slid sideways 800 feet down the chute. Rutherford said Follmer's car tapped his lightly as the two headed simultaneously for a vacant space on the outside.

"I don't know what he was doing there," Rutherford said of Follmer. Rutherford's car cartwheeled several times before meeting the wall with a glancing blow as the other drivers took evasive action that in the blink of an eye could have wiped them out.

Later, in the 29th of the 40 laps, Peterson touched the rear of Foyt's front-running machine and triggered another whipping incident. Fittipaldi and Yarborough had to make incredibly difficult moves away from Peterson, with Yarborough coming out healthy and Fittipaldi somewhat the worse for wear.

Fittipaldi, who went into this final race with a narrow point lead over Unser, had been running in the front pack until then and frequently was in the lead. But after the Peterson spin, Fittipaldi's car was unable to challenge the leaders.

The identically prepared evenly matched Camaros, light weight and calculated to lap the 2 1/2-mile lap oval at a maximum 166 m.p.h., outdid themselves with the world class talent at the wheels.

The speed average for the first 10 laps was 170.509 m.p.h. At 20 laps, it was 169.821, and at 30 laps, it was 167.368.

Unser had been the leader frequently, and after the final red flag, at the 30th lap, he was the dominant driver. But it was not as if he was running alone.

"I knew if I backed off there at the last, Foyt would get me at the end," Unser said.

Bando To Test Reserve Clause

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Oakland A's third baseman Sal Bando dropped a bombshell in the midst of the salary arbitration hearings Friday when he withdrew from his scheduled meeting next week and revealed he would test baseball's reserve clause if he cannot reach a non-arbitrated contract with owner Charles O. Finley.

"We are not withdrawing to test the reserve clause," stressed Bando's attorney Wayne Hooper. "We do not want to go through arbitration because it might be demeaning to both sides."

But the consequences were obvious.

"Legally speaking, what this means is that Finley has two options. He can come in and negotiate with us, or offer Sal a $100,000 contract, or a cut up to the maximum of 20 per cent," said Hooper. "Will that make Sal a free agent?"

"What this means, primarily," said Bando, "is that I've decided not to hassle with Mr. Finley and will try to settle peacefully. I want to reach a gentleman's agreement with him."

Bando said if he could not reach terms with Finley, "Then I'll either be forced to sign for what he offers me or possibly go without a contract."

The Major League Players Association contends a team can renew an unsigned player's contract for only one year while the owner's feel they can renew one year at a time for the rest of the player's career.

Bando's pronouncement was made while Finley, whose A's have won three consecutive world titles, thrashed out his salary differences with World Series pitching star Rollie Fingers before a member of the American Arbitration Association.

The grey-haired Finley, who since arriving here late Tuesday has whittled down his arbitration list from 13 to six, wasn't without news before stepping into the walnut-shuttered conference room.

He announced the signing of his original bonus baby, Lew Krausse, who received a reported $125,000 from Finley when the team was based in Kansas City in 1961, and the "close-to" signing of one-time San Francisco Giants ace Juan Marchal.

Marchal, who ranks second in victories among active pitchers with 248, was released by the Boston Red Sox at the end of the 1974 campaign and Krausse was given his walking papers by the Atlanta Braves.

"I expect to sign him within the next few days," Finley said of Marchal, who departed for the Dominican Republic after the conversation.

Billy North joined the ranks of satisfied when he agreed to terms late Thursday. His arbitration case was to be heard next week in Los Angeles.

Aside from Fingers, Finley still has to face Reggie Jackson, Dave Hamilton, Ted Kubiak, Ray Fosse and John Odom.

Finley met for several hours with Jackson, his star right-fielder, Thursday night but came away empty-handed. After the meeting, the owner said, "It was a very enjoyable, interesting and enlightening conversation. We both submitted our figures to arbitration. As things stand now, we're headed for arbitration."

As for the others, he said, "Hopefully, I think we will be able to reach agreement with some of these men during the next few days."

Paul Lindblad, Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace and Vida Blue signed for hefty raises before their arbitration hearings and Ken Holtzman had his case heard and was overruled in favor of Finley, who will pay the lefthander the same $93,000 he dished out in 1975.

Doane, NWU Matmen Tie

Crete — Host Doane and Nebraska Wesleyan tuned up for the conference championship meet in a dual wrestling match here Thursday which ended in a 24-24 tie.

Wesleyan had defeated Doane on two occasions earlier in the season — 39-2 and 40-6 — yet managed a tie in the latest matchup thanks to forfeits by Doane in three weight classes.

The conference championships will be held at Wesleyan Thursday.

Wesleyan 24, Doane 24

Casper's 68 Merits Score Of Golf Lead

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Billy Casper, playing his best golf in more than two years, shot a four-under-par 68 on a cold and over-cast day Friday to grab a share of the second round lead in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open with Rod Funseth and John Lister of New Zealand.

Casper sank a 35-yard pitch for an eagle three on the 14th hole at Torrey Pines' north course and finished with a birdie four to tie with Funseth, who had a 67, and Lister who had a 69.

Funseth and Lister also played the north course where most of the day's best scores were turned in.

The three held a one-shot lead over Lou Graham who shot a two-under-par 70 on the south course, and a two-shot lead on Phil Rodgers and Ray Floyd.

Johnny Miller, winner of three events this year and 11 over the last 14 months, shot his second straight one-over-par 73 and was nine shots off the pace at 146.

The cut for the final two rounds was set at 146 and it marked the first time in two years that Miller came that close to not surviving.

Miller, plagued by a cold since early in the week, said he wasn't that disappointed in his play but that if the bad weather continues, he will check with his doctor on whether to continue in the third round.

"I don't feel all that bad," said

Miller. "But just bad enough to affect my play."

Defending champion Bobby Nichols, with a 69, tied at 140, four under par and three shots off the lead, with Mark Hayes (73), Tom Kite (68), John Mahaffey (71), Mike Morely (70), J. C. Sneed (71) and Bruce Devlin (71).

Casper, whose last victory was in the 1973 Hartford Open, had two birds on the front side and the only mistake he made was on the par three 17th, where he missed the green and took a bogey.

Funseth, who gained exemption status this year for finishing among the all-time top 50 money winners, had three birdies and an eagle three on the 18th. He chipped in from off the edge for his first bird on the fourth, rolled in a 40-footer on the eighth for his second, and a 12-footer on the 15th for his third. On the 18th, he put his second shot one iron 60 feet from the pin and sank it to finish at 67.

Lister, playing his best golf in a half dozen years, had an up and down card that included six birdies and three bogeys. His longest birdie putt was a 12 footer on the 13th, a par four, 435-yard hole.

Casper, who had four rounds under 70 in the 90-hole Hope Classic last week, said he liked his position in this tournament, especially with Miller far back in the pack.

"I feel all that bad," said Miller. "But just bad enough to affect my play."

I have in my last six rounds," Casper said, "and if I make a few putts I think I have a pretty good chance to win this week."

Funseth, a neighbor of Miller's, said his short game has improved and that's why his scores have gone down lately.

"I didn't drive too well in this round," he said. "But my iron game was my strong point."

Lister said he finally is playing to his potential after a lot of years of scrambling around.

"I seem to have found my long game again," said the 27-year-old New Zealand pro who has played in three World Cup matches but has never quite made it on the American tour. "I missed some short shots and that was the only disappointment in the round."

Hibler Behind 'Heinrich' Biz

"Heinrich" is Hibler. And Hibler is Prof. David Hibler, a sometime candidate for office and presently a madcap rock group promoter. Friday afternoon — speaking through a stocking pulled over his face — Hibler explained "Invasion Notices" (signed Heinrich) distributed in Lincoln starting Monday.

The press conference capped five days in which the notices were distributed on downtown street corners by tightlipped young men wearing a mysterious insignia on white armbands.

The notices attracted straight-forward coverage by few media, tongue-in-cheek coverage by others and total disregard by some.

By the end of the week, editors and news directors, tired of what they felt was a publicity stunt, conspired together to drop coverage until "Heinrich" showed his face.

Friday a press release distributed by one of Hibler's corporals said: "Nebraska and Lincoln seem in the midst of an astonishing artistic renaissance.

"Art news is just as important as cattle news, political news, social news or what have you. In fact it is probably more important, since it helps people reshape their views of known objects.

"Any reasonable person viewing the preposterous string of propaganda which we put out should have been laughing uproariously since last Tuesday.

"To those of you who were offended by what we had to say or do, our apologies."

IRS Says Delay Only Short Time

Omaha (AP) — An Internal Revenue Service official said Friday that while you may have to wait a few minutes for tax assistance when you call IRS, the wait shouldn't be more than two or three minutes.

Charles O'Grady, IRS public affairs officer, said the problems taxpayers have been encountering with calls to the Omaha office of the IRS are a result of two things.

First, he said, the tax assistance office has been "swamped" with calls.

He said from Jan. 28 to Feb. 10 the office had 29,639 calls. He said that number is almost as many as the 31,000 received in the month from Dec. 30 to Jan. 25.

Second, he said, a new phone system called Automatic Call Distribution has been malfunctioning. Under the system, after the fourth ring, a recording is supposed to come on and tell the caller that all tax assistants are tied up, but if the caller will be patient, his call will be answered in order.

Unfortunately, O'Grady said, the system has been "clicking off" after the second or third ring leaving the caller with a disconnected line.

O'Grady said he believes the number of calls has now "peaked" and will start to decline. He also said the phone system has been repaired and is functioning.

Columbus Landfill Hearing Scheduled

The State Environmental Control Department has scheduled a March 11 hearing in an attempt to halt the use of a landfill operation at Columbus.

Richard Hansen, department attorney, said even though negotiations are in progress with Columbus city officials the hearing would be held regardless.

Hansen said he is trying to get the city to enter into an agreement on the closing of the landfill operation, which he said doesn't meet state standards.

If an agreement is reached, the attorney said it would be turned over to the hearing office on March 11. Then, he said, if the agreement isn't kept the next step would be a court action.

However, Hansen said, "I hope we'll be able to work something out. We're not unreasonable but I don't think we should put up with any unreasonable delays."

The attorney said the city was notified in 1973 that the landfill operation would not be relicensed because of groundwater problems.
